ROBINS ESPIED IN CHICAGO, SAY 2 INFORMANTS

FULL INVESTIGATION BEGUN BY MITCHELL

(United Press.)

Mystery surrounding the strange disappearance of Col. Raymond Robins, social worker and dry crusader, while en route to visit President Hoover, increased last night following reports he had been seen aimlessly strolling the streets of Chicago.

While his family continued to express fears Col. Robins had been kidnaped by rumrunners in revenge for his activities against them, Mrs. W. ReQua Bryant, an Evanston, Ill., housewife, yesterday said she saw the missing man in the Chicago Loop at 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

"There could not have been any mistake about it," Mrs. Bryant, an old friend of Robins, declared.

An unknown person also telephoned the Chicago Daily News that he had seen the missing social worker on Chicago streets. Both persons said Robins appeared depressed and absent-minded.

Hoover Said to Be Alarmed.

As these reports filtered into the Capital, President Hoover was represented as being increasingly worried about the absence of the dry leader, whom he has known for more than twenty years. He has asked to be informed of every development of the case, but thus far has issued no statement.

Determined to go fully into the many threats by Florida rumrunners said to have been made against Robins' life, Attorney General William D. Mitchell yesterday ordered the prohibition department to make a complete investigation of the case.

Shortly after his order had been issued, special and crack dry agents were dispatched to Hernando County, Fla., where Mrs. Robins had told Federal authorities, most of the threats had come from. Robins was particularly active against prohibition law violators there, it was learned.

The agents were instructed to cooperate fully with Florida State authorities. As soon as their report is received, Mitchell said, it would be turned over to the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department.

Threats Against Other Drys.

Meantime, it was learned the department is quietly investigating Robins' disappearance. Threats also have been made by a reportedly national bootleg ring against other prohibition crusaders, it was revealed yesterday. Canon William Sheafe Chase, of New York, and Mrs. Ella Boole, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, are among those threatened.

Dry leaders gathered here to formulate their policy in the coming presidential campaign made no secret yesterday of their anxiety over Robins' disappearance. The missing dry leader in addition to keeping an appointment with Mr. Hoover was to have participated in these discussions.

Canon Chase said yesterday the threatening letters he and Mrs. Boole had received were sent from Brooklyn, N. Y., and were in the same

Treasury's Issue Is Oversubscribed

Offerings Six Times More Than $1,150,000,000, Mills Reveals.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills announced yesterday that subscriptions for the Treasury's second major financial operation involving $1,150,000,000 were six times as great as the total amount of the issues.

The securities offered September 15, including $750,000,000 in five-year 3¼ per cent Treasury notes and $400,000,000 in 1¼ per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing on September 15, 1933, were subscribed on the first day the books were opened.

The funds are to be used to retire one-year certificates of indebtedness maturing on September 15 aggregating about $750,000,000 and to meet requirements of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, operating expenses and $50,000,000 interest due on the public debt. Total subscriptions for the five-year notes aggregated $4,351,000,000, of which $408,639,000 represent exchange subscriptions in payment of Treasury certificates maturing on September 15.

Third Party Spurned As Drys State Stand

Antisaloon League Will Concentrate on Congress Elections.

(Associated Press.)

The executive committee of the Antisaloon League yesterday called on the supporters of the eighteenth amendment to center their fight for prohibition upon senatorial and congressional elections.

Citing the league's inability to support the position on prohibition taken by both major candidates, the committee counseled the voters of the Nation "to study with great care" the platforms and declarations of the parties and "vote as in their judgment will best conserve and maintain the present prohibition policy unchanged."

The statement, prepared after two days of conferences, flatly advanced the position that "no national political party convention can bind senators and representatives" on the ground that they "are responsible only to their constituents for the manner in which they meet their official obligations."

The league's statement said:

"The Antisaloon League of America stands unitedly and unswervingly by its nonpartisan prohibition policy.

"1. It declares unreservedly for the continuance of the eighteenth amendment unchanged.

"2. It opposes nullification in any

Canon Chase Sought to Create "Rebuke" for Two Major Rivals.

(Associated Press.)

The national prohibition board of strategy last night declined to participate in the organization of a third party and decided to concentrate its efforts in this year's campaign on the election of dry members of Congress.

A proposal that organizations supporting the prohibition amendment unite and form a third party was placed before the group by Canon William S. Chase, of New York, but his resolution did not receive a second, although it was discussed at some length.

Dr. Ernest G. Cherrington, a member of the board, said the group had reaffirmed its previously announced position that it would not give preference in its recommendations to any of the candidates for President, including William Upshaw, of Georgia, the candidate of the Prohibition party.

In a letter to a number of those high in the councils of prohibition organizations Canon Chase suggested the names of Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, as possible candidates.

Canon Chase said yesterday that it had been his hope to place the third party proposal before a meeting of the

RAILROADS PREPARE FOR WAGE-CUT FIGHT

Bitter Resistance to Plan Is Expected by Labor; February 1 Date Set.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The American railroads set the machinery in motion today to cut the basic wages of their employes 20 per cent.

A bitter fight against the reduction was anticipated from organized labor and the nine railway executives who decided upon the step today expected that the wage adjustment would go the whole route from conference table to the United States Board of Mediation and finally to arbitration.

Nevertheless, the railways hope to trim their pay rolls next February 1 lower than the current rates promulgated as a voluntary reduction for one year last February.

W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, was chosen chairman of the committee on railway wages and issued this statement as the transportation leaders adjourned. "It was decided to recommend to the individual roads that notices be served on all classes of railway employes of the carriers' intention to reduce all basic rates of pay 20 per cent, effective February 1, 1933."

Although this was but a committee recommendation, it was considered a foregone conclusion that every railroad would serve notice on its brotherhood and union workers in accordance with the joint decision.

The brotherhood delegates at last winter's wage conference endeavored, in agreeing to a year's 10 per cent cut, to insert a stipulation that no further cuts would be resorted to at the end of the year and that basic rates would be restored. But the railroad presidents, adamant, carried through their demand for an unconditional twelve-month reduction.

A committee of nine was selected to carry through the wage program of the railroads, under Mr. Thiehoff's chairmanship.

PARAGUAY CAPTURES FORT IN GRAN CHACO

Bolivian Planes Fail to Stop Attackers; War Fever Mounts in Asuncion.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Paraguayan troops tonight captured Fort Boqueron in the disputed Gran Chaco frontier region after an extended battle with Bolivian forces.

The capture of the fort was announced in government advices which indicated that serious warfare between Paraguay and Bolivia long in controversy over the border line, was near.

Several Paraguayan assaults on the fort were reported before it fell. Bolivian airplanes and infantry opposed the Paraguayan troops, which were aided by a light artillery and machine guns.

War sentiment mounted to a high pitch in Asuncion, where crowds sang the national anthem in the streets.

Announcement of the Paraguayan victory was made shortly after the foreign office had indicated its intention to inform the League of Nations of "Bolivia's initiation of war operations" as soon as such action could be taken without embarrassing

Merchant & Miners Liner Rides Out Gale

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Merchant and Miners steamship Allegheny, with 110 passengers aboard, docked here today 26 hours late after running into a storm and heavy seas on its trip up the Atlantic Coast.

Capt. William E. Payne, commander of the boat, said it was the second worst storm he had experienced in 32 years of service with the company. Off Cape Hatteras, he said, the wind reached an 80-mile velocity, sending the waves dashing over the top deck and making 100 of her passengers ill. The steamship left Savannah early this week.

Bern's Threat to Kill Wife Before Own Death Bared

"Comedy" Referred to in Note Declared Outburst on Night of Suicide; Jean Harlow at Funeral as Police Seek Mystery Woman's Body.

Los Angeles, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Examiner said tonight it had learned from sources close to Jean Harlow, film actress, whose husband, Paul Bern, shot himself to death Sunday, that the "comedy" to which he referred in his suicide note was his own outburst in which he threatened to kill Miss Harlow if she persisted in asking him to accompany her to her mother's home.

This dramatic episode, the newspaper said, occurred Sunday night a few hours before Bern, left alone in the canyon home he gave the platinum blonde actress as a wedding present, put a bullet through his head. Miss Harlow, the Examiner said, fled in terror to the home of her mother, Mrs. Marino Bello.

John Carmichael, a butler, testified at the inquest that Miss Harlow and Bern, whose suicide motive has not officially been found, parted on the best of terms Sunday night after Bern told his wife he was "too tired" to go to dinner at Mrs Bello's.

"But from other sources," the newspaper says, "it was declared that Bern flew into a rage at Miss Harlow and screamed 'Get out and let me alone! If you don't I'll kill you.'"

Bern's note said, in part: "You will undertsand that last night was only a comedy."

Hollywood, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—The disappearance and possible suicide of a Titian-haired woman who was linked to the past of Paul Bern today provided a startling development in the film colony's newest mystery.

While Bern's widowed bride of two months, platinum blonde Jean Harlow, stood dry-eyed beside his casket at funeral services in a tiny mausoleum chapel, northern California police began searching for the body of Dorothy Millette, one-time stage

ARLINGTON HAS RATE ON WATER UNDER BOARD'S

Suburban Sanitary Unit's Customers Must Pay $108.20 More.

COUNTY PURCHASES SUPPLY FROM U. S.

Further Reduction in Rates on January 1 Is Seen by Braden.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This seventh of a series of stories appearing exclusively in The Washington Post, deals with a comparison of water rates in Arlington County, Va., and the territory served by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. Tomorrow's article will present the commission's side of the case.

The water furnished to residents of Arlington County by the county government costs $108.20 less than the water facilities sold to property owners in the district served by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

This figure is reached on the assumption that the home owner in each system pays all outstanding debts and assessments during the first year of his occupancy of a home, having a 50-foot frontage, using 40,000 gallons of water yearly and having an assessed valuation of $4,000.

Include Only Water Costs.

These figures include only water costs, since all sewerage facilities in Arlington County are owned by subdivisions. Also, Arlington County Manager Roy W. Braden says he is certain that a 16⅔ per cent reduction in the water consumption rate will be made on January 1, with possibly another 10 per cent reduction before December 31, 1933.

The cost comparisons are:

In the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission district:
General tax (3½ per cent per $100 valuation)	$1.40
Front foot benefit charge (water only; paid in a lump sum instead of 50 annual payments of $7)	168.00
Water service charge	4.00
Consumption charge	8.80
	$182.20
In Arlington County:
No general water tax	....
Front foot benefit charge	$50.00
No water service charge	....
Water consumption charge (40,000 gallons minimum consumption)	24.00
	$74.00

Cost in the sanitary district in excess of Arlington County..$108.20

Arlington County purchases its water supply direct from the Federal Government, and it owns the main which taps the Dalecarlia Reservoir. The Suburban Sanitary Commission

Tidal Wave Also Causes Heavy Damage on Abaco Island.

Nassau, Bahamas, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Government officials visiting Abaco Island of the Bahamas group by airplane learned today that eleven persons were killed and many injured in the storm and tidal wave early this week.

A relief expedition, headed by Dr. H. A. Quackenbush and including several Abaco members of the Bahaman Legislature, is en route to the island.

Six settlements on small cays were struck by the storm Monday and almost all buildings were wrecked. In one settlement the only remaining shelter was a house whose roof had been blown off. There was great need for food, water and medical supplies.

STATE PARTY CHIEFS INDORSE ROOSEVELT

Curry, Tammany Hall Head, Puts Through Pledge of Loyalty at Meeting.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Tammany Hall's quiet-voiced leader, John F. Curry, presented at today's meeting of the Democratic State committee a resolution pledging New York democracy to the "active and loyal support" of the party's presidential candidate, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the vice presidential nominee, John N. Garner.

The resolution was adopted, amid applause, without opposition.

The committee selected Albany for the State convention and fixed October 3 and 4 as the dates. The Republican State convention will meet on the same days at Buffalo. Both conventions will choose candidates for the governorship.

Curry was applauded when he arose to present the resolution indorsing the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

The resolution read:

"Resolved, That the Democratic State committee of the State of New York hereby enthusiastically ratifies the platform adopted by the national convention of the Democratic party and pledges its active and loyal support and that of the united Democracy of the State of New York to our candidate for President, the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and to our candidate for Vice President, the Hon. John N. Garner, and

Dying Man Sought In Theft of $12,000

Cashier Had Only 6 Weeks to Live and Desire to Travel.

Denver, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Harvey L. Carter, 42-year-old railroad cashier, said by physicians to be near death of a malignant disease, was hunted tonight for the theft of $12,000.

The money, in cash and travelers checks, were taken from the safe of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad office in which he had been employed five years. Detectives expressed the opinion Carter, whom physicians had given only six weeks to live, took the money to gratify an often expressed desire to travel. He was unmarried.

The cashier, ailing several months but declining an offer of a leave of absence, disappeared Sunday. Tuesday the safe was found to have been looted.

64 More Are Injured, Some Critically, by Explosion.

U. S. Inquiry Is Started to Determine Cause of Disaster.

New York, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—The old wooden steamer Observation, pounding slowly through the muddy waters of East River, today blew up with a tremendous explosion that hurled about 120 screaming, twisting men from her shattered deck.

Tonight at least 42 of the workmen who were tossed into the air by the blast were known dead. Twelve were missing. It was feared the death toll would mount to 60.

Some of the victims of the explosion were shot high in the air amid debris from the steamer and their bodies thudded violently against building on the shore, some 400 feet away.

Others mangled and unconscious, dropped into the murky water and did not reappear.

Still others, screaming and struggling weakly, were pulled beneath the surface when the hull of the Observation sank in a whirl of bubbling, boiling water.

Although the exact toll of the disaster probably never will be known, police announced that twelve men were missing and about 64 were injured, some of them critically. Other estimates placed the number of passengers, most of them skilled workmen, at 160 in addition to ten members of the crew.

The one man who collected fares and might have aided in establishing the exact toll, was missing after the TOKYO "SPY" TALE PROTESTED BY U.S.

Embassy Requests Officials to Clear National City Bank of Charges.

Tokyo, Saturday, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The American Ambassador today asked the Japanese government to issue a formal statement exonerating the National City Bank, of New York, from newspaper charges that photographs of business buildings in Japan were being taken by the bank for possible use by United States military authorities.

The government did not immediately accede to the request, officials expressing the opinion the matter was too unimportant to require such official treatment. The embassy asked that the official statement assert that thorough investigation showed the charges to be utterly unfounded.

Officials of the bank explained that the photographs were taken in obedience to instructions from New York, and that they were to be used as promotion matter illustrating business and industrial developments in the Far East.

The newspaper Kokumin Shimbun, which led the criticism against the National City Bank, followed up today by devoting half its main news page to a series of stories about alleged American spies.

The paper asserted that there were "manifestations of serious intentions on the part of America against Japan."

The stories included an account of a mysterious visit by an American woman, name not given, to various points in the Kurile Islands a month

Man Tells of Plunging Down 100-Foot Cliff After Smashup In Texas Mountains Fatal to Three; Had Given Up Hope of Rescue.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Survivor of a transport plane crash in the Guadalupe Mountains in which three were killed, George A. Davidson, of Richmond, Calif., was brought here today after being carried on a stretcher down the steep mountain side by seventeen men working in relays.

W. J. (Bryant) Robbins, pilot of the American Airways; Francis W. Briggs, copilot, and Victor Ellman, of St. Louis, a passenger, were killed. Members of the rescue party said the three were burned beyond recognition. Returning over another trail to the scene of the wreck, they hoped to be able to bring out the bodies.

Davidson, a passenger, told Dr. F. P. Miller he tumbled out as the ship broke in two and burst into flames. The others were trapped.

Suffering from exposure with burns on face and hands and broken ribs, he was in a semistupor when rescuers reached him.

Davidson rolled down a 100-foot cliff after he fell from the plane. He remained stunned several hours. When he regained consciousness, he walked 2 miles. Chilled by the cold night air of the mountains he stopped and built a fire. He was found at 8 p. m. last night. It was not until 9:30 a. m. today that the rescue party succeeded in getting him down to the highway, where he was placed in an ambulance and brought to a hospital in El Paso.

The plane, eastbound, struck within 150 feet of the top of one of the mountains in the Guadalupe range, 75 miles east of here, in a fog Thursday morning. The wreckage was discovered early today by two other American Airway pilots, Ira McConaughey and Victor Miller. They had to fly

PUBLIC WORKS BOOM ORDERED BY PRESIDENT

$200,000,000 More Is Made Available for This Fiscal Year.

TREASURY CONDITION ALLOWS SPEEDING UP.

Direct Aid to Employment and Business Generally Forecast by Step.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Immediate stimulation of the Federal Government's public works program, as a direct aid to employment and the expansion of business activity throughout the country, was announced at the White House yesterday.

Under the terms of the emergency relief act perfected in July, approximately $200,000,000 additional is to be made available during the current fiscal year to speed up the public works program. About $100,000,000 of the new funds will go for public buildings, including postoffices, originally authorized under the gigantic 1926 program. Of the remaining fund, about $86,000,000 will go for Army and Navy housing and plant projects, rivers and harbors improvement and other enterprises specifically authorized in the relief act.

The additional authorization will bring this year's total of direct Federal expenditures for public works to about $750,000,000, the largest peacetime annual expenditure for this type of work in the history of the United States.

Total Passes Two Billion.

In announcing the expansion program, President Hoover pointed out that with the current year's expenditures, total Federal outlays of this character since the depression began in 1929, will aggregate $2,300,000,000.

"This sum is more than double the normal page and the enlargement work has, of course, been undertaken solely to aid employment. The actual projects which have been speeded up under this additional sum will be announced by the various departments."

At the Treasury Department last night it was said that the allotment of the additional funds to the various building projects now authorized in various parts of the country would not be available for several days. Early next week, it was indicated, the assignment of the funds to cities and counties would be announced. Meanwhile, the supervising architect of the Treasury is pressing forward with the details of the broader building program. The administration of the public building fund is entirely within the Treasury Department, save that the selection of new projects rests with a joint board heard by Secretary Mills and Postmaster General Brown.

National Credit Improves.

"In order to further aid employment I have instructed the various departments to undertake the speeding up of the Federal construction program by an amount of slightly less than $200,000,000, being the contingent appropriation in the 1932 relief bill and construction act," President Hoover said. "The Secretary of the Treasury has advised me that the

WOMAN IS POSITIVE SHE SAW COL. ROBINS

Federal Detectives in Chicago Scouring City After Report He Was Seen.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Criminal Investigation, at the request of the White House, today threw its forces into the search for Col. Raymond Robins, missing prohibition crusader, and friend of President Hoover, who was reported seen here yesterday.

Mrs. W. ReQua Bryant, daughter of a former fellow campaigner of Col. Robins, reported she saw him in the Loop yesterday, before she read he had disappeared while en route to an engagement last Tuesday with President Hoover.

Department of Justice agents questioned Mrs. Bryant, but declined to divulge what their inquiry had disclosed. Police planned a check of hotels and rooming houses in the possibility that Col. Robins might be suffering from amnesia.

Woman Is Positive.

Mrs. Bryant said she was walking in the Loop yesterday afternoon when, at Adams and State streets, she passed Col. Robins walking toward Michigan avenue, in the opposite direction. He had a worried expression, she said.

"I recognized him and started to speak to him," Mrs. Bryant said, "but I didn't, because, from the look on his face, I feared he was too deeply engrossed in meditation. I am positive, though that the man I saw was Col. Robins. I have known him for twenty years and the man I saw even was wearing a feodora hat of the sort which Col. Robins always wears."

Chicago Likely Refuge.

Police pointed out that if Col. Robins should be suffering from amnesia, it might be natural for him to wander to Chicago—a city he knows well from his past residence here and his former political and reforming activities.

Harold L. Ickes, attorney, and Mrs. Bryant's father, said he questioned her closely and was convinced the man she saw was the missing prohibition advocate. Ickes and Col. Robins campaigned together in behalf of Theodore Roosevelt in the 1912 presidential fight and also in behalf of William E. Dever in 1923 when Dever was elected mayor.

Texas Legislature Aids Delinquent Taxpayers

Austin, Tex., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Texas Legislature today passed a bill for relief of delinquent taxpayers through remission of their penalties and interest. The bill needed only Gov. R. Sterling's signature to make its provisions immediately effective.

The law would provide that penalties and interest be charged off on all State, county and school district taxes December 31, this year, no matter how long the taxes have been delinquent.

ROBINS' VANISHING MYSTERY DEEPENS

handwriting. He predicted if Robins had been kidnaped and mistreated citizens of the Nation would revolt against law-breaking and what he described as "an alliance between corrupt politicians and organized crime."

"If it happened it must have been in New York," Canon Chase said, "and the ones who did it wouldn't have dared unless they were quite sure they would get away with it. If Robins is harmed it will arouse the Nation."

The Rev. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, of the National Temperance Bureau, suggested Robins may have wandered away after a lapse of memory. However, this theory was partly dissipated when Mrs. Robins, from her summer home in Maine, said her husband was in excellent health and not subject to loss of memory.

There were conflicting stories here yesterday also about the seriousness with which the missing dry crusader regarded the threats against his life.

Mrs. Robins said he was deeply concerned and often had communicated his fears to her. Other friends in New York said Robins had carefully made arrangements to dispose of his private affairs in the event misfortune overtook him.

Still other of his close friends who remember his exploits as a political crusader years ago, said Robins had a cold nerve and feared nothing. He was acquainted with hundreds of desperate criminals in many underworlds throughout the Nation through his social service work.

They pointed to his active opposition against Florida rumrunners in the face of threats against his life as proof that he gave them little consideration.

Another strange angle of Robins' disappearance came in reports from New York and Portland, Me., indicating he may have met a group of persons in sympathy with recognition of Russia by this Government, last Saturday after leaving the City Club in New York. The missing man was an ardent supporter of Russian recognition.

necessary funds can be now made available."

In authorizing the expanded construction activity, Congress provided, in accordance with President Hoover's demand, that no new funds should become available until the Treasury certified the outlay would not interfere with the Government's fiscal program.

The vast improvement in the national banking and credit situation since Congress adjourned is believed to have made possible the execution of the new work much sooner than was anticipated in July.

Some of the larger projects specified in the relief bill to be executed under the funds which now become available include:

Public buildings	$100,000,000
National forest roads	16,000,000
Rivers and harbors	30,000,000
Flood control	15,500,000
Hoover Dam	10,000,000
Commerce aviation	500,000
Coast and Geodetic Survey	1,250,000

Wife Discouraged Despite Report Robins Was Seen

Refuses to Offer Reward or Ransom for His Return on Instructions He Gave in Lindbergh Case; Will Depend on Authorities.

Southwest Harbor, Me., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Drier Robins, wife of Col. Raymond Robins, missing social worker and prohibition leader, today heard her husband had been positively recognized by a friend in Chicago, but the report brought her scant encouragement.

Miss Edith Kissack, secretary to Mrs. Robins, who is visiting her sister here, said the family doubted that the man whom Mrs. R. ReQua Bryant saw in the Loop district of Chicago was Robins. They knew of no reason why he should have gone to Chicago, she said.

Miss Kissack asserted she knew nothing of Robins' reported propensity for disappearing for varying periods while he was working on projects in which he was interested. So far as she knew, she said, he never had been absent for any length of time without his family being acquainted with his whereabouts.

Miss Kissack said she knew of only one threatening letter Col. Robins had received. That was six months ago, while he was "somewhere out West," she said, but she was not familiar with the nature of the threats.

Mrs. Robins, who yesterday voiced a fear her husband may have been slain by Florida bootleggers, announced it was her intention to leave the search in the hands of authorities. The family will engage no special investigators, she said, offer no reward for information and pay no ransom.

Col. Robins instructed her at the time the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, she asserted, never to offer to pay a ransom in case of his own disappearance because of the possibility the payment would not result in his release.

A Department of Justice agent interviewed Mrs. Robins today. Miss Kissack said, so far as she knew, he had obtained no information which would assist in the search.

U.S. WATCHING ARMS MOVES, PARIS TOLD

Washington Views Outlined Informally by Edge to Herriot.

Paris, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The controversy between Paris and Berlin over German armaments is a matter of interest to the United States, Ambassador Walter E. Edge told Premier Edouard Herriot today at an interview attended also by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and J. Theodore Marriner, counselor to the American Embassy.

The premier took advantage of the occasion to discuss the French reply to Germany's request for arms equality, which will receive final cabinet consideration tomorrow. Reports were that France will refuse to make a bilateral arms agreement with the Reich.

The United States Embassy carefully pointed out that the ambassador's explanation of the official American attitude to M. Herriot was purely informal, since the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles treaty and consequently has nothing to say about its revision.

Mr. Edge told the premier that the United States is vitally interested in all phases of the disarmament problem. The ambassador utilized Senator Reed's visit to convey the views of Washington before the French reply has been forwarded to Berlin.

Nothing official has been divulged, but it was believed that the French reply will say that this country can not interest herself in increasing armaments, that France is interested in reduction of arms for reasons of security and economy, and that France and Germany alone can not change the Versailles treaty.

If Germany wants that done, it is contended, she will have to plead her case before the League of Nations.

During the preparation of this reply the government has been consulting other interested powers, particularly Great Britain and the signatories of the European pact of confidence.

The German memorandum, delivered last week to the French Ambassador in Berlin, requested confidential discussions about arms between the French and German governments.

It stipulated that Germany could not agree to the resolution adopted by the Geneva Disarmament Conference because it left open the question as to whether its terms would be applicable to Germany as well as to the other powers concerned.

FRANCE TO FOREGO NEW MORATORIUM

Foreign Office Officials Say Sept. 15 Will Witness Payment to U. S.

Paris, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Foreign office officials said today that France does not intend to ask for a 90-day moratorium on war debts payments on September 15. The newspaper Intransigeant said the cabinet had discussed the forthcoming payments at Wednesday's meeting, but would not issue a statement for a few days.

In London yesterday it was said the British government will allow its option for postponement of the next payment on the American debt to expire next Thursday without taking any action.

(Associated Press.)

Postponement of payments due from Germany on September 30 was discussed at the Treasury yesterday, but Secretary Mills said no formal notification of Germany's desire to defer the installment had been received. The conversations were between Mills and Dr. Rudolf Leitner, general counselor of the German Embassy. Neither made public their conclusions.

At the Treasury some officials expected the German Republic would give formal notification of postponement unless methods of raising the funds are found before they become due.

A total of 33,050,000 reichmarks (about $8,000,000) is due on September 30. Of this, 20,400,000 reichmarks is for settlement of mixed claims and 12,650,000 for army of occupation costs.

Relieved Last Year.

Germany was relieved of the installments on the army cost in the fiscal year 1932 through the moratorium and also took advantage of the optional clause in the mixed claims commission agreement and deferred the last two payments for 2½ years each.

At present Germany owes the United States Government $181,867,133 for army of occupation costs and $134,245,078 in mixed claims.

Under the agreement Germany was to give 90 days' notice of her intention to postpone the September payments. This places the question of postponement up to Secretary Mills. Under the terms of the agreement approved by Congress, Mills is authorized to waive the notification requirement.

No Debt or Notifications.

When questioned yesterday as to whether Germany, which has been in desperate financial straits, was seeking to finance the payment privately, Mills expressed the opinion that no such plan could be authorized.

Before departing for Portland, Me., to speak tonight, Mills said none of the foreign debtor countries had notified the Treasury that they do not intend to meet their December 15 payments following the expiration of the moratorium. They have until September 15 to give these notices.

Unconfirmed reports that Germany had sought to file notice she would not pay were assailed by Mills as without foundation.

FRIENDS HERE TRACE ROBINS' ODD CAREER

Called "Picturesque Figure of Last Frontier;" Days in Russia Described.

(Associated Press.)

The missing Col. Raymond Robins, poor man's benefactor, close friend of Presidents, was characterized by Washington intimates yesterday as "one of the picturesque figures of the last frontier."

They described his colorful career through the Klondike of the gold rush days, Chicago's slums and Russia in the throes of revolution.

From the Klondike earth, Robins dug the wealth which enabled him to lead a life of his own choosing, with familiar paths both among the lowly and the powerful.

"He called it 'gold that never soiled anybody, never bribed anybody, never injured anybody,'" said Oswald Ryan, general counsel of the Federal Power Commission, with whom Robins had an appointment at the time of his disappearance.

Robins had been a frequent visitor in Ryan's Indiana home.

"Instead of setting himself up in luxury when he returned from the Klondike, he located in the lowliest settlement in Chicago," Ryan said.

One of Robins' Chicago projects was a Sunday night club for homeless men.

"As an example of his fairness and lack of animus," said Ryan, "I recall he used to say, although a bitter opponent of the saloon, that he did not think the saloon had ever been given its full credit as a social club—that it did have certain social merits which he really recognized."

Robins' broad-minded viewpoint, Ryan added, was greatly to his advantage as a Red Cross representative in Russia, "where he actually served as unofficial representative of this Nation."

The theory that Robins might have gone off on some "lone wolf" mission of his own was discounted by Ryan, who declared with great positiveness he would never thus cause his wife concern or fail to keep an appointment with President Hoover.

Mills to Address Bankers' Conclave

Treasury Secretary Planning Other Speeches on Way to Los Angeles.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills said yesterday he would address the convention of the American Bankers Association at Los Angeles October 4, and would make a number of speeches en route to the Pacific Coast. In addition, Mills tentatively plans to attend the Michigan State Republican convention at Detroit on September 29, where he expects to speak.

The Secretary of the Treasury said the Republican national committee wanted him to make an extensive speaking tour throughout the country but that pressing business at the Treasury would prevent.

However, it is planned to have Mills speak at a Republican rally in New York City on November 5, and his schedule called for him to leave late yesterday for Portland, Me., where he will deliver a political address tonight.

The minimum fine, according to Judge Snow, will be $10 and costs, and the maximum $100 and costs.

The city police report that hundreds of persons in every section of the city have failed to take out city licenses, and the work of summoning them into police court will be started immediately.

Sanders Says Hoover's Talk to Be Nonpartisan

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Everett Sanders, Republican national chairman, announced tonight that President Hoover will make no "partisan speeches" during the presidential campaign.

In telling at the party's Eastern headquarters of the President's plan not to make a "personal campaign," Sanders said:

"That does not mean that he won't make any speeches at all. He may make a speech or two in the West and probably one in the East, but they will not be partisan speeches."

He said no consideration had been given to the selection of dates for the addresses.

LEGION TO SUPPORT CASH BONUS, IS VIEW

Officials Reveal 1,160 Votes For and 61 Against in Tabulations.

(Associated Press.)

Legion officials here predict advocates of immediate bonus payments will control more than four-fifths of the votes at the American Legion convention in Portland, Oreg., next week.

Consequently they expect the convention by an overwhelming majority will demand cash for compensation certificates. They fear, however, that the contest on the question might be prolonged by a dispute over whether the resolution to be adopted should mention the eviction of the bonus expeditionary force from Washington.

Tabulations kept by these legion officials show that on the basis of the last convention's voting strength there will be 1,160 ballots for the bonus and 61 against it with the remainder as yet in the undecided class.

Seven Took No Action.

The 1,160 total covers 35 States and the District of Columbia departments of the legion. Two other States—Virginia and Missouri—propose payment when it is believed the financial condition of the Treasury can stand it.

Only three States so far have voted directly against payment. These are Florida, South Carolina and Nebraska. Kansas was expected by legion members here to do likewise, but its convention, just ended, added another 31 votes to the majority.

Seven department conventions controlling 89 votes took no action. These were Alabama, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Vermont, Panama and Wyoming. Many members contend these will support payment.

Possibility of Battle.

Legion headquarters has not yet been advised of action by the departments of Alaska, Arkansas, Oregon, Canada, France, Hawaii, Italy, Mexico, the Philippine Islands and South Dakota. In the latter State, a referendum is being conducted in the posts.

With the majority committed to the bonus, officials think there is a possibility of an extended fight over resolutions similar to those adopted in Maryland, Massachusetts, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas, criticizing the manner in which the B. E. F. was evicted from the Capital. These five States hold 248 votes on the 1931 convention basis.

New York, Illinois and New Mexico, where such resolutions were defeated, have 196 ballots. Backers and opponents of moves to criticize the eviction both predict sucess at Portland.

the people the high qualifications and splendid records of our candidates and the principles contained in our platform, to the end that we secure for our candidates a triumphant election."

In less than five minutes after the roll call, the committee adjourned. James A. Farley, national chairman, presided as chairman of the State committee. When the meeting broke up, Mr. Curry and John H. McCooey, leader of the Brooklyn Democratic organization, called upon Gov. Roosevelt at the executive mansion.

Farley will continue as State chairman at least until the convention selects a gubernatorial candidate when a new chairman, to be named by the candidate, will be chosen. Whether Farley will succeed himself will be a matter for the discretion of the candidate.

A committee to draw up a platform for the convention was named. It is headed by John T. Dooling, chairman of the Tammany Hall law committee.

A committee to select the temporary officers for the convention and to name a slate of presidential electors is headed by Mr. Curry.

During their visit here last night and today, both Curry and McCooey were silent as to their idea regarding the nomination of a gubernatorial candidate and the much discussed possibility of former Mayor James J. Walker again running for the office. Mr. Walker resigned while an ouster hearing before Gov. Roosevelt was in progress.

There are two candidates for the governorship nomination, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, with the support of Mr. Roosevelt, and Mayor John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, who was advanced by the O'Connell organization of Albany.

Missing Woman Sought.

Police last night were asked to look for Mrs. Antoinette E. Pennington, 29, of Leonardtown, Md., who, according to her husband, Raymond Pennington, 1242 Tenth street northwest, left Leonardtown September 2 to come to Washington. She has not been seen since.

M'NIDER TO FAVOR PAYMENT OF BONUS

Says He Will Not "Sell Out" Iowa Legion, Which Asks Immediate Action.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—His personal conviction will be overruled by his instructions as an Iowa American Legion member, Hanford MacNider said here today, with the result he will not oppose immediate bonus payment at the national American Legion convention.

"I am going to Portland as a member of the Iowa delegation, which is instructed to vote for immediate payment," said the Iowan, who recently resigned as United States minister to Canada. "I certainly am not going to sell out my delegation."

MacNider, who stopped en route to Portland for the convention next week, said he had heard nothing to bear out the recent assertion of L. E. Lohmann, of St. Paul, Minnesota Legion commander, that MacNider, War Secretary Patrick J. Hurley and others had been named by the national administration at Washington to speak against cash payment.

Settlement Hinted.

The administration opposes such payment. Recently Chicago Republican headquarters announced MacNider would campaign for the party, particularly among war veterans.

MacNider asserted, "I think that a movement already is under way toward some settlement of this bonus question," but refused to say more.

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Vigorous resistance to any move tending to lessen the benefits received by disabled veterans will be made by the American Legion, John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the national executive committee, said upon his arrival today from Washington, D. C., to attend the national convention next week.

Disabled Veterans.

He stated the outstanding problem confronting the convention will be legislation for disabled soldiers, and that the legion's fight "to obtain justice for disabled World War veterans has now entered the defensive stage."

Several thousand legionnaires had arrived and other thousands will pour into the city Saturday and Sunday.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of Navy under the Wilson administration, will reach Portland tomorrow, and Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, will arrive Sunday morning by plane. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, is expected Monday, as is Frank C. Hines, of Washington, D. C., Veterans' Bureau administrator.

Curtis Returns to Capital Prepared to Take Stump

(Associated Press.)

Vice President Curtis returned yesterday to the Capital prepared to take the stump in the Republican campaign.

He will speak next week at Fogelsville, Pa., and thence will go actively into the election drive. The Vice President said he had numerous requests for speaking engagements, but was leaving the itinerary in the hands of the national committee. The committee intends to send him to Tennessee and Kentucky later this month.

ago; an account of a recent cruise by three American aircraft carriers along the Aleutian Islands, and an article telling that many American air bases "which can not be considered purely commercial" had been established recently in the Aleutians.

The newspaper admitted that Japanese naval officers said all these reports were unconfirmed. American officials declared themselves ignorant of any basis for them.

The paper also gave prominence to a report that Americans were sending many bombing planes to Hangchow, China, to assist the Chinese army in establishing an air base.

The Japanese people, the paper continued, are reacting unfavorably to the concentration of the American Navy in the Pacific.

It is known that a group of American fliers under Col. John L. Jouett, formerly of the U. S. Army, are serving as instructors at Hangchow. Shanghai dispatches told of their activities last month.

GOVERNORS DISCUSS FARMERS' PROBLEMS

Nine States Are Represented at Sioux City; Recess on Mortgages Urged.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A conference of Midwestern governors and their representatives today studied a wide variety of proposals in a quest for a definite program of farm relief.

Called by Gov. Warren Green of South Dakota when picketing activities of the National Farmers Holiday Association centered attention on agriculture's fight to obtain prices at better than cost of production, the executives went into all-day session to consider the problem.

Nine States, from Minnesota to Oklahoma and from Wyoming to Ohio, were represented at the sessions. Four governors were in attendance while the other executives sent personal representatives.

Meanwhile, hundreds of members of Farmers' Holiday Association in Iowa and nearby States congregated at Riverview Park, a short distance from the city, during the day and paraded through the streets.

Numerous Remedies.

Confronting the governors were proposals for a special session of Congress to consider the problem, for moratoriums on farm mortgages, establishment of freer credit to permit holding of farm products for higher prices, suggestions that a general embargo be declared to prevent shipment of farm products into urban markets until better price levels are reached and numerous other remedies.

The conference's morning session was devoted to formation of rules for its conduct. Accredited persons nominated by committees from States represented at the meeting were permitted to appear before the governors. After they were heard the executives intended to receive telegrams, statements and suggestions from others who were unable to be present.

Parade Is Reviewed.

After reviewing the holiday association parade the governors returned to their conference room to begin the hearings which were expected to continue tomorrow and possibly longer.

It was estimated that about 200 trucks and automobiles carrying slogans urging the executives to help increase farm prices were in the procession.

The concentration of the holiday sympathizers here resulted in the opening of the road's picketed in this vicinity. Farmers who had feared to attempt to bring in their produce during the picketing poured into the city markets. A few of the pickets kept to their posts, but they did not attempt to halt traffic.

Democrats Deny Backing Blaine's Senate Drive

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Announcement that Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, will visit Wisconsin to speak in behalf of Senator John J. Blaine, Progressive Republican candidate for re-election, drew a statement today from Democratic headquarters here that Senator Wheeler is not coming under the auspices or with the approval of the Democratic national committee.

THREE STOPS ADDED TO ROOSEVELT TOUR

Former Senator Reed Talks With Nominee and Plans Campaign Speeches.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt, today conferred with former United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, one of his several rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination at the Chicago convention, and added three new stops to his Western campaign trip which begins next Monday night.

After the Reed conference both the Missourian and the governor announced that the former senator will make several speeches during the campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had a "pleasant talk" with Reed regarding "national problems" and particularly the farm speech which the Democratic candidate will make next Wednesday at Topeka, Kans.

Late in the afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt was visited by John F. Curry, the Tammany leader, and John H. McCooey, the leader of the Brooklyn organization. They said they talked with the governor about the selection of temporary and permanent chairmen for the State convention, which will be held at Albany on October 3 and 4. The leaders were in Albany for the State committee meeting, which selected the convention city.

No mention was made of the gubernatorial nomination or the New York mayoralty situation, they said.

The three new stops on the Roosevelt Western itinerary are Jefferson City, Mo.; Pocatello, Idaho, and Sacramento, Calif.

The special train will consist of the governor's private car, the Pioneer; three Pullmans, a baggage car, a club car and a diner. Ira G. Rasp, New York Central divisional passenger agent, made arrangements for the trip and will accompany the party. The Roosevelt train will cost $20,000. The special train that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith used in his Western swing four years ago had fourteen cars and cost $43,000.

COALITION PLAN HIT BY VON HINDENBURG

Stands Firmly By Cabinet as Another Election Is Believed Sure.

Berlin, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Germany seemed headed tonight for another election which nobody wants.

President von Hindenburg granted a formal interview this afternoon to Hermann Goering, National Socialist president of the Reichstag, and the three vice presidents, Esser, Graef and Rauch, but he turned a cold shoulder to the efforts of a possible Nazi-Centrist coalition to unseat the Von Papen government.

He left no doubt that he intends to stand by the cabinet, and the only choice the opposition has is between dissolution of the Reichstag or adjournment pending further efforts to find a common basis for cooperation.

The president will receive the various party leaders Tuesday and Wednesday in pursuit of such efforts, but political observers do not expect much in the way of results. On the contrary it is expected the chancellor will present a decree of dissolution before the Reichstag can vote no-confidence next week.

This would entail a general election, the fifth major election this year, within 60 days. None of the political parties has much money to spend on an elaborate campaign.

The greatest single threat, of course, is the National Socialist party. Adolf Hitler is said to welcome the prospect of another election, confident that he can increase the gains he registered in the last.

Seattle's Mayor Bitter On U. S. Fund Refusal

Seattle, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Mayor John F. Dore said today the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has advised him it will not grant Seattle's requested loan of $7,500,000 for improvements to the Municipal Light plant.

"Just a blow at municipal ownership," the Mayor said. "We believe we can bring enough pressure to bear to make Senator Jones and President Hoover back up and get us the money. Otherwise, Jones will find himself kicked out, along with Gov. Hartley."

Postal Rights Delay Scored by Socialists

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Socialist Party of America charged today its application for second class mailing privileges for presidential campaign literature has been held up by postal officials "for political reasons."

"We made application for the mailing rights on August 2," said Edward Levinson, editor of America for All, the party's official organ. "We were assured the Postoffice Department would take action within three weeks. So far, however, postal authorities have delayed the matter with technical objections of a completely extraneous character."

In the secluded Beverly Hills home shown above, Paul Bern, film executive, died with a bullet through his head, a suicide. Jean Harlow, beautiful blonde of the films and his bride of two months, when questioned by police was unable to give any reason why her husband should have ended his life. Overcome by grief she was excused from a coroner's investigation of the case. Los Angeles police are shown above discussing the case with Marino Bello (right), stepfather of the actress.

MAJ. ARTHUR OWENS TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Despondency Is Blamed for Act of Retired Marine Officer in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 9.—Funeral services for Maj. Arthur B. Owens, 54, United States Marine Corps, retired, former newspaperman, lawyer, and gentleman farmer, who committed suicide at his country estate, the Hill, near West River, last night, will be held from the residence at 10 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Maj. Owens shot himself at his home apparently as he was making ready to retire. He used a .45 caliber revolver. That he had planned to end his life was indicated by a note found on a dresser. It read, "I have shot myself; no one is to blame."

His wife, socially prominent here, found the body and summoned Police Justice Thomas John Hall 3d, and Dr. Frank B. West. Magistrate Hall, acting coroner, convened a jury of inquest which returned a verdict of suicide.

Mrs. Owens said at the inquest her husband had been in a depressed and worried condition for some time over general financial and economic conditions, and was particularly affected because the largest crop of tobacco ever raised on the farm had not been sold on account of low market prices. Maj. Owens was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Owens. He studied law in the offices of his uncle, the late Col James W. Owens, Confederate veteran, of Annapolis; graduated and began practice more than 30 years ago. For two years he corresponded for Baltimore newspapers. In 1912 he entered the Marine Corps, but retired in 1919 because of impaired health. For several years afterward he was engaged in business in Philadelphia, but later returned to Annapolis and resumed law practice with his uncle. Soon after his uncle's death, three years ago, he retired to supervise the country estate. Besides his widow, he is survived by a stepdaughter, the wife of Lieut Comdr. Vincent H. Godfrey, of the Navy, and a brother, Rudolph Owens, of St. Louis.

BERN'S THREAT TO KILL WIFE BEFORE ENDING LIFE IS BARED

player, who for ten years carried the name of "Mrs. Paul Bern" and was the beneficiary of his will.

The dramatic disappearance of a woman described as "Miss Millette" from a coast steamer en route from San Francisco to Sacramento was believed to mean one of two tragic developments—suicide from grief at Bern's death, or a possible suicide pact entered into by the movie executive and his "first wife."

Reports that Dorothy Millette vanished from the Sacramento River boat Delta King last Tuesday night—the day after Bern wrote a baffling note to Miss Harlow and then committed suicide—provided authorities with a maze of theories.

One was that of a suicide pact secretly entered into by Bern and the woman whom his relatives said he recognized as his wife but never married. This was advanced as the possible solution Bern decided upon to free Miss Harlow from a hopeless love triangle in which she was innocently involved.

Still another theory was that Dorothy Millette, shocked by word of Bern's unexpected suicide, had followed him in death in a frenzy of grief and despair.

Miss Harlow herself, recovering sufficiently today from her breakdown to attend Bern's funeral, said she was aware of Bern's interest in "an old friend" to whom he sent $350 every month, but never knew of anything closer between them.

Bern's sister, Mrs. Freiderike Marcus, said she knew Dorothy Millette and the circumstances surrounding her association with Bern, but said she was baffled by the film executive's suicide.

Bern's brother, Henry, of New Rochelle, N. Y., who rushed here to "get at the bottom of things," tore aside the mystery of Dorothy Millette tonight by divulging the whole history of Paul Bern's life with her.

"I do not know what Paul's suicide note meant about 'righting the great wrong' done his wife, and I am not aware that Jean knows," the brother said. "I am positive that I did not ask her the meaning. I can give no more explanation that you can for the suicide itself. The motive is still a matter of conjecture and hypothesis. Miss Millette," he said, "has definitely nothing to do with it."

"There is no mystery about her," the brother continued. "Miss Harlow was told about her before the wedding. Paul met Miss Millette in Toronto eighteen or twenty years ago and they lived together there and in New York, when Paul was in stage work.

"Before Paul met her she was supposed to have inherited a lot of money. Her guardian is supposed to have squandered or embezzled the money, and she worried about the loss, contracting brain fever.

"I never saw her in the ten years she lived at the Algonquin after leaving the sanitarium, but talked on the telephone with her many times."

Early this year, according to the brother, Miss Millette said she wanted to live in San Francisco and Henry made provisions for her at the Plaza Hotel there. She moved about the last of April, he said.

"Paul saw her only four times in all the ten years, the last time about four years ago," Henry continued. "Each time he came away positively ill at the great change in her."

From other sources it was disclosed that Paul Bern consulted his physician, Dr. Ed B. Jones, about his condition three days after he married Miss Harlow. Dr. Jones was reported to have reassured both the producer and his wife.

New evidence piled up rapidly as police extended their search for the missing woman, and each new clew, they said, added weight to the theory that she had ended her life by drowning in the Sacramento River.

Described as a reserved and cordial woman, she had lived at the Plaza Hotel for about four months, checking out hurriedly and in great agitation last Tuesday. From there she went to the Delta King's dock and reserved stateroom 304.

There the trail ended until it was discovered that Dorothy Millette was not aboard when the Delta King docked at Sacramento at 5 a. m. Wednesday.

Capt. W. J. Atthog, master, reported finding her clothes heaped in confusion about the cabin, but the bed undisturbed. A pair of stockings and shoes were found in the companionway leading from her cabin to the ship's rail—indicating, authorities believed, that she leaped to her death unclad, just as Bern ended his own life while standing in the nude before a mirror.

Mrs. Marcus, the sister, said she knew Miss Millette did not object to Bern's marriage.

"She and my brother were never married because Paul was idealistic and could see no reason for signing a marriage register," Mrs. Marcus said. "Besides, Miss Millette would not go through with the ceremony."

One further theory in the disappearance of Miss Millette was considered by police—that she swam ashore and was still alive.

Miss Harlow disclosed that Bern left her for an entire day recently without explaining his absence. It was believed possible the picture man was in communication with Miss Millette, and police were attempting to determine if there was any correspondence between them.

The silver-haired picture luminary had no tears left for her husband's obsequies in Grace Chapel, Inglewood Cemetery, this afternoon. In the flower-banked little church she sat in an anteroom, her face pale and drawn by days of suffering. Her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Marino Bello, were with her.

The actress wore a black costume with a tight-fitting turban and dark veil. After the simple services, which were presided over by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, and the little company of 100 mourners had left, Miss Harlow walked quietly to the casket and gazed fixedly at her husband's face. Then she turned and walked out.

Standing on a dais above the gardenia-covered bier, Conrad Nagel, who gave the eulogy, looked directly down on the still form of his friend as he spoke.

"Although a part of Hollywood, he was strangely aloof from it," said Nagel. "His simplicity amid all the insincerity made him an unique character."

Dr. Magnin's sermon, conducted after the rites of the Jewish faith, was brief.

Slowly then the group filed past the casket—John Gilbert, best man at his wedding; Jetta Goudal, whose battles often were fought by the dead producer; David and Myron Selznick, fellow executives; Joan Bennett and her husband, Gene Markey; Louis B. Mayer and Irving Thalberg, Bern's coworkers at the studio, and many others.

The chapel was deserted, attendants moved the casket away. Cremation will follow and the ashes will be placed in an urn at the mausoleum.

Court Action Asked By "Ma" Ferguson

Wants Writ Certifying Her Nomination to Forestall Foes.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Texas' Supreme Court today tasted some of the bitterness engendered in lone star politics by the close race between Gov. R. S. Sterling and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The woman former governor formally applied for a writ of mandamus to force the party managers to certify her nomination should it be determined she received a majority of the votes in the run-off primary of last August. Semiofficial returns indicated Mrs. Ferguson received a plurality of nearly 4,000 votes over the incumbent.

The court took the motion under consideration. It did not indicate when it would hand down a decision. Attorneys for Mrs. Ferguson asked the court to direct the executive committee and State convention, which meets at Lubbock next Monday, as to their duties because she feared efforts might be made, to prevent them from functioning according to law.

Davis Wins Point For Separate Trial

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, obtained a court order today directing United States Attorney George Z. Medalie to show cause why he should not be tried separatey from three other defendants on charges involving an alleged fraternal lottery.

At the same time the senator pleaded not guilty to a superseding indictment which was returned yesterday. The bond of $1,000 which he posted after pleading to the original indictment, was continued. The order against Medalie is returnable Monday morning before Judge T. Blake Kennedy, of Wyoming, who is sitting in this district. Senator Davis said in his affidavit that if he were required to wait until the other defendants were ready for trial "a grave injustice would be done, not only to me but to the electorate of the State of Pennsylvania."

PERUVIAN PREMIER AND MINISTRY QUIT

No Reasons Given for Action of Rivadeneira and His Cabinet.

Lima, Peru, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Premier Ricardo Rivadeneira and his entire cabinet resigned today after a session at which President Luiz M. Sanchez Cerro presided. No reasons were given.

The newspaper El Comercio said the premier tendered the resignations because he wanted "to leave the president at liberty to choose new cabinet members."

The premier also held the portfolios of justice and education.

Senor Rivadeneira was the third premier to resign this year in Peru. Francisco Lanatta, who was both premier and minister of finance, resigned April 13, as a result of attacks on his administration of national finances. Luis Flores, who was premier and secretary of interior, went out of office when the assembly voted lack of confidence in his administration on May 19. The vote came after a shooting affray in the congress building and the arrest of a deputy who said he was attacked.

Senor Flores handed in his resignation the next day and a few hours later the appointment of Senor Rivadeneiro was announced.

Lily Pons Reveals Broken Marriage

Estranged From Husband Since April; Divorce Due in Spring.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Lily Pons, dainty little Frenchwoman, who for two seasons has starred in the Metropolitan Opera, revealed today that she and her husband have been estranged since April. They probably will not be divorced until spring, she said.

The rift in their marital relations was made, she said, when her husband, August Mesritz, went to Paris from New York on business.

Concerning divorce plans, she said "such things are difficult to discuss when one person is in America and another in Europe." She described reports that she planned to marry a young Argentine as "ridiculous."

REVOLT IN BRAZILIAN STATE HELD SUCCESS

Sao Paulo Rebels Declare Loyalists at Para Were Crushed.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Sao Paulo constitutionalist rebels today confirmed reports of an uprising in the State of Para in their favor and claimed it was successful. They said the federal interventor had been deposed and a wholly independent state government set up.

The rebel leaders said Lieut. St. Clair Paes Beme headed the sympathetic uprising in Para and was provisional head of the government.

The constitutionalists asserted they were holding firmly to all positions in the sectors where they are opposing federal troops.

It was reported in Rio de Janeiro that three other Brazilian states joined Sao Paulo in the rebellion but that the uprising in Para was put down after rebels had seized the capital and attacked police headquarters. The other uprisings were reported in Pernambuco and Santa Catharina.

Condition of Roosevelt's Son Reported Improved

Little Boarshead, N. H., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—James Roosevelt, son of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was reported as improved by members of his household tonight. He was taken to the summer home of his father-in-law, Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted brain specialist, of Boston, yesterday, suffering from what a physician diagnosed as complete exhaustion.

New Mexico Governor's Son Is Sent to Prison

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Sept. 9 (A.P.), Otis Seligman, son of Gov. Arthur Seligman, of New Mexico, and former assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Santa Fe, was sentenced to five years in a Federal prison and fined $10,000 when he pleaded guilty today to charges of violating national banking laws.

Eight other former employes of the bank, of which Gov. Seligman is president, were given lesser sentences and fines by Judge Edgar S. Vaught, when they also pleaded guilty to similar charges. Federal officials reported the men were short approximately $70,000 in their accounts.

42 ARE DEAD AND 12 MISSING AFTER NEW YORK FERRY BLAST

blast and believed drowned. Only one man reported escaping from the ship without injuries, but a few others suffered only slight bruises.

Police boats roamed back and forth around the scene of disaster tonight and divers went down into the wreckage. The blast presumably was due to a boiler explosion, but officials said the cause could not definitely be determined until the hull was examined.

Four investigations by city and county authorities were started to determine the responsibility for the accident.

Two men, Alexander J. Forsythe, son of the captain of the steamer, and Otto Nelson, a deckhand on a scow nearby, were detained for questioning.

It was said investigators were attempting to discover if salt water had been used in the boilers. Officials of the Iron Workers Union, to which most of the victims belonged, said they had recently complained that the Observation was unseaworthy and overcrowded.

The cumbersome, 44-year-old Observation, of 122 tons, had taken aboard workmen at 7 a. m. to start her third trip as a ferry from 135th street, The Bronx, to Rikers Island, where the workers were engaged in a construction project.

The men were in good spirits when they went aboard, as Friday is pay day at the island. The crowd was larger than usual because all wanted to be on hand for their pay.

The steamer edged out of her dock and picked up speed slowly. Some of the laborers were talking in small groups. Others were reading their newspapers or shouting at men on passing boats.

About 100 feet from the pier the Observation was picking up speed. Suddenly, the vessel shuddered violently from stem to stern and was blown to pieces at almost the same spot where the steamer General Slocum burned and sank 28 years ago with a loss of 1,021 lives.

Bodies Hurtle Through Air.

The deck of the Observation appeared to lift clear of the bulging wooden hull. There was a vicious hissing sound and then a terrific roar. "A greater noise than anything I ever heard," one eyewitness said.

Whirling black objects shot into the air and fell hundreds of feet away. They were human bodies.

The body of one man rose 40 feet above the shattered vessel, soared 300 feet over water and docks and crashed against a window in a building, falling to the street.

Another body twisted through a high parabola until it fell with a sickening thud on the roof of a warehouse.

A huge spar whistled upward with the speed of an arrow and fell on a taxicab, piercing the machine, from which the driver had stepped a moment before.

Many Sink in River.

From the wreckage, from which Capt. George Forsythe, 60, master of the Observation, lost his life, the bodies of dying men were hurled into the river, where they sank before aid could reach them. The heads of injured could be seen as they attempted to seize floating objects near where the Observation sank immediately after the blast.

E. G. Wallensik, a field clerk, had been sitting on the bow of the steamer talking politics. He said he felt the boat shudder and then felt himself "flying through the air." Bodies and flying wreckage were all about him and when he hit the water he was almost knocked unconscious.

"I thought I must be dead," he said later. "It seemed like another world. Everything went hazy. Some men were struggling in the water beside me. Others lay very still upon the water."

Wallensik was unconscious when rescuers pulled him out.

The boiler of the vessel went into the air like a balloon, while the water around the broken craft boiled furiously.

Along the docks, and in boats only a few yards away, scores of persons had witnessed the disaster. Tugs swung around, boats put out from the shore and rescuers began hauling in the injured.

They couldn't work fast enough to get all of them. Some went down before their eyes, but man after man—half of them unconscious or wounded—was pulled to safety.

On the dock which the Observation had left a minute earlier, stood Teddy Moreau. He was panting after a hard run, and he had missed the boat. Moreau usually had to run for the boat, but this was the first time he had missed it and he was still blaming his hard luck when he saw the craft demolished.

Moreau, George Uhran, Max Manhelt and others nearby leaped into small boats and picked up survivors. The steamer Freeman put about and a lifeboat crew rescued other injured men.

Victims Badly Mutilated.

"They were terribly mutilated," said F. L. Calls, second mate of the Freeman. "There were broken legs, busted arms, cuts and bruises."

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, directing rescue work, arrived on the scene within a few minutes. He recalled that he had been on duty nearby when the General Slocum sank in 1904 and that he had placed the captain of that vessel under arrest.

Ambulances clanged up to the dock and doctors, aided by a large staff of nurses, gave first aid treatment there before speeding the injured to hospitals.

Three Catholic priests moved among the dying, administering last rites. They worked with the doctors and, on several occasions aided police in carrying wounded men ashore. Blood spattered their robes and the dresses of the nurses, who toiled desperately to aid the victims of the blast.

A Coast Guard vessel began grappling for bodies and the dock department ordered divers to search the wreckage for dead. Thomas Walsh was assigned to the task. He was one of the divers who brought bodies out of the sunken General Slocum.

(United Press.)

An immediate investigation of the New York ferryboat disaster was ordered yesterday by the Commerce Department.

A few hours after word of the tragedy had been received at the department, D. N. Hoover, assistant director of the Bureau of Navigation and steamboat inspection, had departed to take personal charge of the inquiry.

The Department ordered Alva R. Chapman, hull inspector, and Harvey C. Colgin, boiler inspector of the New Haven, Conn., board of local inspectors, to begin the investigation at once.

Records at the Department showed the boilers of the ferry Observation were inspected and officially approved by Commerce Department agents on April 26.

Pants Prove Unstable Blast Rescue Medium

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A touch of comic relief was given the nerve-worn rescuers in today's river disaster, when John McCue came from the water protesting the loss of his trousers. Another victim, who was later rescued, had tried to cling to McCue's clothing and had torn off his trousers.

"When the boat exploded I went high into the air and then sank deep into the water," said William Donoghue, one of the survivors. "When I came up again I was hit by a body coming down. Then I went down a second time. Coming up again I could hear the hiss of live steam."

James Keenan told of landing on a floating door and clinging to it until help came.

PLANE CRASH HORROR IS TOLD BY SURVIVOR

12 miles to find a landing place after discovering the wreck.

"I had given up hope of ever being found," Davidson mumbled through scorched lips to his rescuers.

"Planes passed over me. I tried to attract their attention, but it was too dark.

"The last thing I remember was unbuckling my safety belt and fighting my way out of the terrible flames. I rolled and rolled down the side of the mountain.

"My eyes were blistered over. I couldn't see. I cut the blisters open with my pocket knife. After building a little fire to keep off the cold, I walked a long way in search of water.

"My back was hurt. I must have hurt it when I rolled down the hillside."

Dr. Miller said: "Davidson is the nerviest man I ever saw. In the condition he was in he was considerate for the men who struggled with his stretcher down that tortuous trail. He would mumble for them not to mind when one of them would stumble and jar the stretcher."

Tulsa Passed by Hurley On His Way to Legion

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, arrived here by airplane today on his way from Washington to the American Legion convention at Portland, Oreg.

Visiting about the airport of his home town 45 minutes, he later flew on toward his unannounced destination, heading southward from Tulsa. His ship arrived at 3:45 p. m. and left at 4:30 p. m. It was piloted by Lieut. William Cousland.

the neutral powers which have been attempting to settle the conflict.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The war ministry claimed tonight that an apparent major offensive of Bolivian troops in the disputed Gran Chaco border country was repulsed at Pozo Valencia.

Earlier official statements said strong Bolivian forces had made simultaneous attacks at a number of Paraguayan strongholds. They told that the defenders were holding on at all points, but an intercepted Bolivian radio was contradictory.

It claimed Fort Rojas Silva has been captured by the Bolivian troops. The radio message said the infantry followed up an hour's intensive artillery bombardment and routed the Paraguayans from the fort.

Because the Bolivians were reported attacking a number of different points, the government considered they were making a last desperate bid to win control of the disputed Gran Chaco area before the rainy season sets in.

JOHN W. POLE HEADS NEW YORK CONCERN

Fidelity Investment Firms Claim Former Comptroller of U. S. Currency.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—John W. Pole, who has resigned as Comptroller of the Currency, will become president of the Fidelity Investment Association and its affiliate, the Fidelity Association of New York, Inc., it was announced today.

Pole will divide his time between Wheeling, W. Va., and New York, it was stated. In making its selection, the directors of the two companies said they were influenced mainly by two considerations—Pole's feat in working his way from his original job as a bank examiner to his 1928 appointment as Comptroller of the Currency by President Coolidge, and because of his wide acquaintanceship with banks and bankers.

Acceding to the request of J. W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency, President Hoover yesterday formally accepted his resignation.

Repeated His Request.

Months ago Pole made known that he wished to leave the post of comptroller, and several days ago he repeated his request that he be relieved as soon as convenient.

In accepting Pole's formal resignation, Mr. Hoover praised him for "the extremely able manner" in which he had conducted "a most difficult task during this period of crisis." Pole said he would enter private business, and asked that his resignation take effect not later than September 20.

The Chief Executive yesterday did not name any succesor to Pole. Howard M. Simms, Chicago banker, has been prominently mentioned to fill the vacancy.

President's Letter.

President Hoover's letter, acceding to Pole's request, follows in full:

"I have today received your letter of resignation, and I must, of course, accept it. In doing so I wish to express my appreciation for your remaining in the service at my request many months after you had determined to accept a position elsewhere.

"But of much more importance than that, I know that I express not only my own appreciation, but that of all of the other members of the Government, for the extremely able manner in which you have conducted a most difficult task during this period of crisis.

"We all regret the necessity which compels you to leave the service of the Government, and it would be extremely difficult for us to find some one to take over the office with the assurance of such ability and effectiveness as that which you have shown."

Mexican Rail Traffic Suspended Due to Flood

Mexico City, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A Chihuahua dispatch tonight said that all traffic on the Mexico City-El Paso Railroad had been suspended as a result of floods in the areas of the Florido, Chuviscar and Conchos Rivers.

Two hundred houses in Parral have been inundated, as have parts of Jimenez and Camargo. Near Camargo the Florido is 6 miles wide.

2 Guardians Tangle Fight for Baby Heir

Accused Father Named in Kentucky; Texas Kin Press Battle.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Hubert Johnson Jenkins today appeared in county court and was appointed legal guardian of his son, Hubert, jr., 10-year-old eventual heir to half a million dollars from the estate of his grandfather, the late Mayor T. L. Bradford, of Dallas, Tex.

Mrs. Addie Keating Bradford, the boy's step-grandmother, had herself appointed legal guardian in a Texas court Tuesday, and today's action by Mr. Jenkins provided the young heir with a different legal guardian in Texas and Kentucky.

Announcement that the Bradford family will not compromise in its fight to regain custody of the boy and to return the boy's father to Dallas, Tex., to face trial on kidnaping charges was made here late today by Dexter Hamilton, attorney for the family. Extradition papers, he said, will be presented to Gov. Ruby Laffoon, and if extradition is granted, he said he expected no trouble in finding Mr. Jenkins, who has been in seclusion.

TREASURY WILL HIRE OUTSIDE ARCHITECTS

McCarl's Decision Clears Up Point in Unemployment Act for Relief.

With announcement on the public buildings project to be undertaken as part of the Wagner-Garner relief act expected soon from the Executive offices, Comptroller General McCarl in a decision sent to Secretary Mills yesterday made it possible for the Treasury Department to employ outside architects for the relief projects.

In the decision McCarl held that the public building act, which authorized the use of outside architects to draw plans for public buildings, could also be applied to the Wagner unemployment act.

Meanwhile, the Treasury Department continued with its plans to ask for a reconsideration of the 10 per cent cut in relief act appropriations.

Secretary Mills, in his first letter to McCarl, declared that the 10 per cent reduction in the economy bill should not operate to reduce the $100,000,000 to $90,000,000. Under the decision, it was thought likely that each project would have to be reduced one-tenth, but a question arose there as to whether the $10,000,000 could be used in other construction or would be impounded.

Chicago Seeks R. F. C. Loan of $38,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois, yesterday conferred with officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, arranging a series of conferences looking to a $38,000,000 loan for the Chicago sanitary district.

Sabath discussed the question with Chairman Pomerene and others and arrangements were made for officials of the district to come here later.

produces some of its water and in times of stress buys water from the District of Columbia.

The general tax in the sanitary district area is levied on all property in the area. It is based on the amount required to meet sinking fund and interest requirements, after the receipts from front foot benefit charges are deducted from the sinking fund and interest needs.

The front-foot benefit charge in the sanitary area is levied against home owners at the rate of 14 cents a front foot for water, and is payable annually, if the owner chooses, or may be made in one lump sum.

Division of Charge.

This is levied against the owner for the water facilities at his property line. Each property owner bears a proportionate part of the cost of extending the water lines into his property area.

In Arlington County there is no general tax. All sinking fund and interest payments are made from the consumption rate. Likewise, after the $1 per front foot benefit charge is paid in the county, there are no further benefit charges. All costs of extending water mains into an area, in excess of the front-foot levy, is paid for from the proceeds of the consumption charge.

In Arlington County, the total front-foot charge may not exceed $100 for the total footage. If a property owner has a 150-foot tract adjoining his home, he pays only $100. The same total levy is made if he has any footage exceeding 100 feet.

Water Service Charge.

While in the sanitary district area a property owner who has a 150-foot front tract adjoining his house pays 14 cents a foot each year for 50 years, or $1,050. There are lower rates in the sanitary district for small acreage tracts.

The water service charge in the sanitary district of $4, payable annually, is for the cost of the meter, its maintenance, repair, replacements, meter reading and the cost of building and collection.

There is no water service charge in Arlington County. The meter maintenance, repairs, replacements, and billing and collecting costs are all included in the consumption rate.

To have a water connection installed in Arlington County costs $50. Included in this installation charge is the meter cost. The home owner pays $40 to the county for tapping the main and extending it to his property line, and the home owner pays an average of $10 to his plumber to extend the line from the property line to the house.

In the sanitary district the cost of making a water connection is $42.50, plus $2 for a permit and inspection fee, bringing the total cost to $44.50, or $5.50 less than the cost in Arlington County.

The consumption charge in the sanitary district includes the cost of water furnished gratis to municipal buildings, production of water, maintenance of the system, lowering and replacement of mains, &c.

The Sanitary Commission estimates that only 70 per cent of the water used is actually paid for, because of the amount used for fire purposes, leakage and free water for municipal buildings. Arlington County Manager Braden estimates that 82 per cent of the water consumed brings money into the general water fund, the rest is used by leakage, flushing, &c. All water not paid for is charged to the general consumption fund. Also this fund pays for operation and maintenance of the mains, extensions of lines, sinking fund requirements, all meter reading and maintenance of meters.

Difference in Bonds.

With the exception of the $1 front foot charge, which pays a part of the installation of water facilities into an area, every item that is chargeable to the water service in the county is paid for by the consumption rate.

In Arlington County there are outstanding water bonds and short term notes amounting to $800,000. In the sanitary district there are $8,750,000 in bonds outstanding against the water and sewer systems.

Arlington County erected its own distribution and pumping systems, and gets all its water from the Dalecarlia Reservoir. It has a reservoir at Lyonhurst with a capacity of 1,500,000 gallons, and has a standpipe for pressure boosting that holds 175,000 gallons of water.

Supply Called Excellent.

At present the county is extending line from the standpipe to sections of the county, where the pressure is inadequate. The supply of water is excellent at all times, County Manager Braden says, and there are few complaints.

Whenever there is a complaint about pressure it is investigated and immediate remedial measures are taken. There are extremely few complaints against the quality or quantity of the water. In all these complaints, the fault is usuallly in the house pipes, he said. Arlington County gets the same quality of water as the District of Columbia.

County Manager Braden said: "I expect that the consumption charge per 40,000 gallons will be reduced on January 1 from $24 to $20. The rates need to be reduced and I am sure that they can be."

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Housewifely ideas about preserving, none too easily carried out in the intense heat of late August, were quickly revived in the cool of this week. The overflow of tomatoes and peaches on the local markets, with extremely low prices on both foods, tempt the housewife to buy for her winter needs. The Meanderer saw fancy tomatoes selling for 25 to 50 cents a half bushel, while 75 cents buys a bushel of tomatoes of excellent grade. Peaches—large, ripe, of appealing perfection—are commonly sold at $1.25 a bushel.

Plums of various sizes and colors are ready for the preserving process. In one market in the Southwest section four kinds of plums—Italian, German, Damson and Green Gage plums—were ready in profusion for the housewife's inspection. The German, Damson and Green Gage plums in eight-quart baskets are 60 cents. The Italian plums are $1 for a half bushel basket. The plum season should continue for about three weeks, one experienced marketer told the Meanderer.

Crab apples, always of interest to the housewife who makes jelly, are here in all their scarlet glory. Half bushels of crab apples sell in a big terminal market for 90 cents a half bushel or $1.75 a bushel.

Juice grapes are to be plentiful very shortly. Early next week it should be possible to find the best of juice grapes for $1 a bushel.

After the bulk of the tomatoes are in their jars, the housekeeper likes to prepare catsup, chili sauce or relishes of a part of her supply. Small red or green peppers of the red hot sort add much to certain tomato relishes. The peppers sell for 10 cents a pound.

Fresh, red-ripe figs from South Carolina are selling in fruit stands in one open market for 10 cents a quart basket.

Juicy little California oranges sell for 15 cents a dozen in one market, with larger oranges in graduated low prices. Small grapefruit, likewise, are exceedingly cheap, costing as little as five cents each.

Washington is getting the best bananas that have arrived in many weeks, according to one wholesale dealer in bananas. The demand for bananas has increased, bringing the prices to higher levels than had been reached all summer. The entire local supply of bananas is taken from boats that bring their cargoes to wharves at Baltimore. Santa Marta and other districts in the region of Guatemala are the sources and shipping points for the bananas consumed in Washington.

Happy days are almost here again for the oyster fanciers. Cooler weather always improves the quality of the oyster, so that the early September coolness has made the oyster supply at present extraordinarily good. Early October will find the oyster season again with us in a larger way, but it is possible now to get fresh, large, plump oysters from Chesapeake Bay in the fish markets. In one market the Meanderer visited on Washington's waterfront, a fish dealer was enthusiastic over his unusually good supply of oysters for September.

More than 2,000 cans of tomatoes, commercially canned at Readville, Va., traveled more than 100 miles in a gasoline barge to contribute to Washington's food supply. Readville is a busy canning point on the Great Wicomico River below Smith Point. The tomatoes were an order for a large local chain store, and will be sold at low prices. Readville cans fish also, and the vegetable and fish canneries that have recently resumed operations there employ 250 persons.

Cauliflower is a welcome addition to the choice vegetable variety from which the housewife may choose. Large, full heads of the whiter sort are selling at chain stores this week for 19 cents.

Amazing sights in one important food selling place this week were Idaho potatoes of giant size. Many of the potatoes weighed 24 ounces. The average weight for Idaho potatoes rated as "heavy," is 12 to 16 ounces. These extra large tubers are from the Caldwell section of Idaho. A 100-pound bag sells for $2.50.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

THE other day, feeling a hankering for foreign shores, and knowing I couldn't start across the ocean and be back in time to broadcast the next morning, I decided I'd at least go as far as the river front and take a look at a steamship or two.

As luck would have it, one of the big ocean liners was lying at her dock that day getting ready to sail the day after. And before I knew it I found myself stepping up the gangplank. Yes, I was tempted to stay right on board. But then I thought of Judge Gordon having to announce next morning that the wanderlust had been too strong for me—that I'd been found as a stowaway on an ocean liner at sea—and I decided it wouldn't do.

But I did improve the shining hours by getting hold of the purchasing agent of the line, and the chief storekeeper of the ship, and I got them to tell me something about how they feed 1,380 passengers and a crew of 570 on an ocean voyage.

Are there any favorite dishes? I asked the chef of the liner. "Mais non, oh non," he assured me, and laughed. There is so much variety and there are so many things to try that there isn't time to settle down to favorites. But—people do like to see the little French pancakes called crepes Suzettes, made right before their eyes at the table. And even many Americans get to like onion soup for breakfast, after the Parisian fashion.

"You must have to carry an enormous amount of food on board to give all these people all these elaborate meals," I suggested.

I was told that the ship carried all this when she went to sea:

35,000 pounds of beef, 7,000 pounds of smoked meats—ham and bacon and the rest, 4,000 pieces of poultry, 800 pieces of game—pheasant, grouse, partridge, quail, snipe, guineafowl, venison, rabbit, and even bear, when it's in season; 12,000 pounds of fresh fish, 100,000 pounds of fresh vegetables, 50,000 pounds of fresh fruit, 5,000 dozen eggs, 10,000 pounds of butter, 4,000 pounds of cheese—every kind of cheese you ever heard of; 40,000 cans of food, 10,000 pounds of dried peas, beans, &c.; 3,000 pounds of coffee, 6,000 pounds of sugar.

Besides tea, dried fruits, crackers, 300 barrels of flour, cereals a couple of tons of salt, catsup, pickles, lobsters, truffles—or what have you.

In the huge kitchen there is a battery of stoves in a long double row. Gleaming copper pots and pans, many with quaint shapes, some lined with silver. Vast tables and counters for the preparation of salads pastry and so on. Glowing charcoal fires for broiling. And over it all, lord of this domain, and proud as Punch of his gorgeous kitchen, Yves Leard, huge and red-faced and white-capped.

Well, I didn't take an ocean voyage. But when I stepped back on the dock from the gangplank, I felt almost as though I had.

And while we are in a French mood, let me tell you about a French lunch we had the other day.

The menu was cheese omelet, French bread and butter; a compote of fresh fruit and coffee.

Here's the recipe for the cheese omelet:

Cheese Omelet.

6 eggs
6 tablespoons milk or water
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated cheese

Beat up the eggs until the yolks and the whites are thoroughly mixed, but not too light. Then add the milk or water, season with salt and pepper and add the cheese. Now melt the butter in a frying pan. Pour in the mixture and cook the omelet slowly until it is brown on the bottom. Sprinkle it with more grated cheese, fold it over and slip it out onto a hot platter. Garnish with parsley.

Picnic Sandwiches.

Cottage cheese makes a delicious sandwich filling for the picnic season. For sandwiches, moisten the cheese with sweet cream, and flavor with a little chopped parsley, chopped or sliced olives, sliced celery, pimentos, horseradish, Spanish onion, pickles, or nuts. Some persons like the flavor of caraway seeds in cottage cheese. This spread is equally good on white bread, rye bread, nut bread, and brown bread. Other sandwich combinations suitable for picnics are as follows:

Cucumbers, sliced very thin, and spread with a little mayonnaise dressing. These are especially good on brown bread.

Boiled ham with chopped sweet pickles and salad dressing.

Cream cheese, ripe olives and nuts.

Chopped raisins, with nuts and lemon juice to season.

Hard-cooked eggs, chopped and mixed with mayonnaise and minced bacon.

Cottage cheese and bacon.

Butter mixed with strained honey.

Grated American cheese, mixed with salad dressing and chopped celery or pickles.

Smoked fish, carefully picked over to see that no bones are left in.

Peanut and Celery Sandwich.

Chop celery fine, add it to peanut butter or ground peanuts, and a little cream or milk. Spread this mixture between slices of whole-wheat or graham bread.

Baked Beans Sandwich.

Use about 2 tablespoons of chili sauce to ½ cup of baked beans, mash the mixture till it is smooth, and spread on brown bread, or graham bread.

Ground Peanut Sandwich.

Put shelled roasted peanuts through a food chopper, using the medium-fine knife. Do not use the nut knife because it grinds the peanuts too fine. Mix the ground nuts with just enough cream to moisten and make the mixture suitable to spread. Add salt to taste. Spread this mixture on graham or whole-wheat bread.

COMMUNION UNITES 3 DENOMINATIONS

Mt. Pleasant, All Souls' and Universalist at Lord's Supper Tomorrow.

Members of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will participate tomorrow morning in as unique a religious exercise as has ever been held in Washington. At the final of the series of union summer services in which they have been cooperating with All Souls' Unitarian and the Universalist National Memorial Churches, the Congregationalists will join with the other denominations in a union communion service.

The ministers of the respective churches will officiate, and the details of the service will be in charge of the officers of the Universalist Church, where the service will be held. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Frederic W. Perkins, minister of the host church, on "The Catholicity of Christ."

While members of several denominations have participated in communion services at religious conferences or conventions, a search of records has failed to disclose any other occasion in the District when members of more than one denomination have united in such a service as a part of their regular worship. As a result, particular interest in the service tomorrow has been aroused among church people who are favorable to union among Protestant denominations.

The opening event on the fall and winter schedule of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will occur tomorrow morning, when the church school will reopen at a 10 o'clock session. Members of the school will meet in departmental groups, under the general direction of Miss Lois M. Kugler, director of religious education, and Mr. Bernard A. Chandler, newly elected school superintendent. One week from today the officers and teaching staff will begin their annual fall setting-up conference, which will continue two days, in preparation for the formal class organization on rally Sunday, a week later.

President C. H. Collingwod, of the reorganized Mount Pleasant Church Men's Club, has called a meeting of the program committee of the club for next Friday evening to adopt an outline of the work of the organization for the new church year. The opening event will be held on the evening of Wednesday, October 5, in Fishburn Hall, recreation center of the church.

Tabernacle Pastor Returns to Pulpit

Rev. H. L. Collier Will Preach Twice Tomorrow.

The Rev. Harry L. Collier, pastor of the Full Cospel Tabernacle, North Capitol & K streets, who has returned from a month's rest at the seashore, will preach tomorrow at the "home-coming day" services. His subject at 11 a. m. will be, "The Overflow," and at the popular evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m. he will speak on "The Bride's Transfiguration."

Members of the official board of the church and others who have been away at camp meetings and on vacation are returning for the "home-coming day." The Sunday School meets at 9:30 a. m. under the superintendence of Ivan V. Gross and the Young People's Society at 6:30 p. m., under the leadership of L. P. Safford.

Services for the week are: Prayer, Tuesday, 1 p. m., and Friday, 7:45 p. m.; pentecostal healing service Wednesday, 7:45 p. m.; choir meeting, Friday, 7:45 p. m. The annual autumn tabernacle day will be observed Sunday, September 18, when Holy Communion will be administered.

CANON CHASE URGES THIRD PARTY OF DRYS

39 organizations supporting prohibition which was called for last Wednesday but postponed. He added that he had been "very much disappointed" by the postponement. He pressed his proposal at last night's meeting of the board of strategy.

If the prohibition organizations hope to interest Senator Borah in heading a third party ticket, Canon Chase said, they must act before September 15 or find the Idaho Republican no longer willing to consider the proposition.

Canon Chase expressed himself as convinced that if the whole force of the prohibition movement were thrown behind a third candidate both political parties would be administered "a severe rebuke in the November elections."

The great problem, he said, would be to raise sufficient money to finance an adequate campaign. This problem, however, he believed would be simpler this year than heretofore because neither of the major parties is attempting to raise large campaign funds.

In his letter to the prohibition leaders, written prior to the planned Wednesday meeting, Canon Chase said in part:

"We have constantly sought to have our forces led by a great political and moral leader whose very consent to lead a new party would have thrilled the Nation and awakened religious devotion to our Nation's preservation, similar to that which dominated our Nation's birth. * * * Senator Borah and Gov. Pinchot seemed to many of us to be fitted in many ways to lead us.

"If we could, early after the Chicago conventions, have gone to either of these men with a united request of all of our dry forces and with sufficient funds to guarantee a satisfactory presentation of our cause, we are persuaded that either of them would have led our cause. It is too late now, however, to organize a new party but we are not without plans for meeting on September 7.

"If we can unite on September 7 in an effective moral and political protest by the dry forces, whether successful or not, we will leave a fighting army in the field. * * * It will organize a powerful minority power which will hold the balance of power. This will place the dry forces in splendid fighting position for the 1934 elections. The principal immediate result would be that it would stop the desertion of dry senators and representatives from voting to propose to the States the repeal of any substitutes as an amendment to the eighteenth amendment, as proposed by the Republican platform."

ANTISALOON LEAGUE PLANS CONCENTRATION ON CONGRESS

form either by the action of any State or by the repeal or modification of the Volstead act to legalize an increased alcoholic content in permissible alcoholic beverages or by the action of any State.

"3. It calls upon the President and the prohibition department to present to Congress the needs of that department in order to secure efficient prohibition enforcement, and also upon Congress to provide the money and men necessary to meet those needs.

"4. It calls upon the governors and legislatures of the several States to enforce their State prohibition laws, and where there are no State prohibition laws, we urge the adoption of such legislation, and we also call upon State authorities to cooperate actively with the Federal Government in the enforcement of the prohibition law.

"5. It calls upon all good citizens to cooperate in every possible way to secure not only the enforcement but the observance of the prohibition law.

"We are in the midst of one of the great battles in the great warfare with the beverage liquor traffic. The Antisaloon League has vigorously and consistently declared that prohibition should not be made a partisan political issue and should not be the subject of political party platforms. As a result of the rejection of this nonpartisan policy by the party conventions and candidates, the situation today is unusually complicated. Conditions are such that in some sections of the country it is exceedingly difficult for the supporters of prohibition to express their convictions effectively in the coming election.

Sees Nullification Peril.

"The acceptance speeches of both candidates of the two major parties favor the return to the several States of the right to determine whether or not the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors shall be legalized and under what conditions. To neither of these positions can the Antisaloon League at all consent. The Antisaloon League of America insists that the liquor traffic shall continue to be branded as criminal in every State and Territory under the flag. It declares that when once the traffic has been legalized in any State the return of the saloon or its equivalent is enevitable in that State. Furthermore, the league insists that the protection of dry States against the lawlessness of a legalized traffic in other States is a proposition impossible of effective enforcement.

"Any demand for the immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit beverages of greater alcoholic content will, if acceded to, open the way to nullification of the Constitution and the weakening of any effective law enforcement.

"The baneful effects of the illegal liquor traffic with its speakeasies and bootleggers will not be cured by the repeal of Federal prohibition for the same illegal traffic flourished all over the country before the adoption of the eighteenth amendment. The legalization of the liquor traffic will not obliterate the inherently lawless illegal traffic, but will bring back the vicious power and pernicious influence of the brewers, distillers, and liquor dealers' associations with the adoption of the eighteenth amendment utterly smashed.

"Situation Complicated."

"In this exceedingly complicated situation the Antisaloon League of America counsels the voters of the Nation to study with great care the political party platforms, the public declarations, and the known records of the presidential candidates and to vote as in their judgment will best conserve and maintain the present prohibition policy unchanged.

"Concerning party platform declarations, the Antisaloon League declares that no national political party convention can bind senators and representatives. They are responsible only to their constituents for the manner in which they meet their official obligations.

"We can not therefore urge too strongly the supporters of the eighteenth amendment to emphasize their views on the prohibition question to the senators and representatives already elected and to all senatorial and congressional candidates. We urge the support of those candidates only who believe that prohibition ought to be the law. Believing as we do that a majority of the voters of the Nation favor the retention of the eighteenth amendment unchanged, it is of vital importance that the real sentiment of the people shall be declared. We recommend that social welfare organizations and religious bodies record their opposition to any change and we recommend that State conventions and local mass meetings be held which shall call upon Congress to maintain the eighteenth amendment and our present prohibition law. By such group meetings and by personal appeal senators and representatives must be made to realize the actual sentiment of their constituents and that they will be held personally responsible by them for the action they may take regardless of any party platform declarations.

"The warfare of the social order with the traffic in intoxicating liquors is inevitable and irrepressible. Civilization, if it is to survive, must put alcohol and all other narcotic drugs in the same category. Civil government is under the highest obligation to protect society from the ravages of such poisons. The Antisaloon League of America stands unequivocally today as it has always stood against the legalized liquor traffic in any form. Once again it calls upon good citizens to protect the child life and the homes of our people from those enemies which through greed and covetousness would destroy them now as in the past. No greater obligation rests upon the Christian churches, fathers and mothers, and all good citizens than to meet fully their responsibility to maintain the brand of the criminal upon beverage alcohol, the common enemy of the race. In this warfare the Antisaloon League declares that party platforms and political candidates are temporary, that there can be and will be no surrender, no retreat, and no compromise. This truceless war must continue until the traffic is beverage alcohol, the greatest enemy of the social order, has been abolished. To this end we pledge ourselves anew and we call upon all opponents of the liquor traffic to unite with us in this truceless war."

Christian Science Churches

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all of the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from John 6:27: "Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you; for him hath God the Father sealed."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people" (Matthew 9:35).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws. His acts were the demonstration of Science, overcoming the false claims of material sense or law" (page 273).

ANOTHER $200,000,000 LIFT.

Increased employment on projects covering rivers and harbors, flood control and public buildings will be provided at once by order of President Hoover. The speeding-up order is made possible by the appropriation of $200,000,000 in the relief and construction act. This expenditure, however, was not to be available if the Secretary of the Treasury should certify that the amount was not available and could not be obtained upon reasonable terms. Secretary Mills has advised the President that the necessary funds can be obtained on reasonable terms.

The $200,000,000 made available for emergency construction is the result of a compromise. Speaker Garner pushed through his "pork-barrel" bill carrying a fantastically large sum for public buildings. Democratic senators opposed him, and President Hoover threatened to veto the bill. Senator Wagner offered a program calling for $500,000,000. This, too, was regarded as excessive by the administration, and by compromise the figure was placed at $200,000,000, with the proviso that the Secretary of the Treasury must find it possible to obtain the funds on reasonable terms.

Thus Democrats as well as Republicans share in the credit for providing this extra sum for the relief of unemployment.

President Hoover states that the expenditure for public construction this year will now aggregate $750,000,000. The total expenditure for all classes of construction since the depression began and up to July next will amount to $2,300,000,000. This sum is more than double the normal pace. It is providing work for many thousands, and relief to as many families. The works under construction were approved by Congress several years ago. The public will be greatly benefited by the river and harbor improvements and flood control works.

SOCIALISM FOR CHILE.

Acting President Carlos Davila undertakes an ambitious program in his determination to revolutionize Chile. He says his ambition is to make of the southern nation "a living socialistic state." This he proposes to accomplish as the sole and unhampered head of the government. Mr. Davila realizes the difficulty of the task before him, but says it will be much easier than if he had been encumbered with party pledges and compelled to cater to a personal following in politics.

This is a unique position to assume in Latin America, but Mr. Davila is installed as a Chilean Mussolini without either king or parliament to bother him. He says he has not even any political followers, nor any party or group behind him, solely as head of the state he expects to put his plans into effect. His "living state" is to be so organized that it will not be the abstract conception of a bureaucratic state, which acts as a complacent paymaster, but "so organized that it can command efficiency from the individual because it assumes for that individual the social obligation of giving him work."

The Davila system of Socialist transformation demands that there shall be a collective discipline which will destroy hidden interests and contend against the ambitions of individuals or groups. "Socialism," Mr. Davila finds, "hurts many interests which defend themselves easily by hiding behind feelings which are rooted in the people; for this reason our work is arduous, provokes reactions and arouses profound resistance." The present government, it is explained, labors under the paradoxical policy of being "truly revolutionary, firmly energetic and at the same time both tolerant and a destroyer of extremes."

Since, as Mr. Davila contends, his fundamental support rests upon his firm and orderly will to triumph, he pursues unafraid a course between hatred from above and momentary misunderstanding from below. He assumes all responsibility for putting down disorder, and is proceeding with equal firmness against the agitators and "the powerful person who fights to retain his unjust privilege and is infinitely more guilty than the misguided laborer who pursues illusory ideas."

This outline seems a bit vague for a policy through which Mr. Davila proposes to transform a republic into a living Socialist state, nor does he explain just how such an animate entity differs from just an ordinary Socialist state. The undertaking to do this virtually single-handed, will be watched with interest. Mr. Davila is known in Washington as an earnest and energetic advocate of his advanced ideas. He says he has no organization or party following behind him. It is to be feared, however, that before his revolutionary rebuilding of Chile is completed he will encounter very decided organized opposition. After one false start he apears to be firmly seated in the provisional presidency supported by the armed forces of the nation. If he can keep order and can demonstrate that his Socialistic plans will ameliorate conditions in his distressed country, his self-imposed and solitary task will bring him lasting fame.

THE LEGION AND THE B. E. F.

Testimony presented to the District grand jury indicates that the entire story of the bonus army invasion of Washington has not yet been told. Veterans who came here with the bonus seekers and lived with them at both Camp Marks and Camp Glassford swear that firearms were secreted in the camps. One rifle and some ammunition buried at Camp Marks by the California group have been recovered and exhibited to the grand jury. One former member of the B. E. F. has made an affidavit that he saw seven sticks of dynamite and some detonating caps in the possession of bonus marchers.

It is well known that some of the bonus seekers were armed when they began the riot. The testimony given to the grand jury by veterans who lived in the bonus army camps merely strengthens a well-established fact. Apparently a considerable number of the bonus marchers came to Washington armed and were prepared to use their weapons.

After the adjournment of Congress the rowdy elements gained control over the B. E. F. They chose to fight and kill rather than submit to an order of eviction from Government property which they illegally occupied. They overcame the civil authorities. That is the only reason why the bonus seekers were ousted from Washington.

A few American Legion posts and other organizations are apparently ignorant of this situation. They have criticized the eviction order on the assumption that it was issued against a group of peaceful veterans who were innocently squatting on a Federal building site. By closing their eyes to the fact that some of the bonus invaders were armed and that they used their arms in attacking law enforcement officers, these critics have put themselves in the position of condoning resistance to the United States.

This issue is of particular interest just now because indications are that it will be thrown into the American Legion convention at Portland. Some individuals who do not know and make no effort to find out the actual situation which led to the evacuation of the bonus camps are making a drive to have the Legion condemn President Hoover's action. Another group which has taken cognizance of the riot and the lawlessness that developed in the bonus camps is determined to forestall any criticism by the national organization.

If the Legion acts while the case is still under investigation by the grand jury it will make itself ridiculous in the public eye. The bonus army was not sponsored by the Legion. The Legion can not afford to take responsibility for unlawful acts. Most of the Legionnaires who assemble at Portland will not know enough about the eviction of the B. E. F. to pass judgment upon it. They have nothing to gain by accepting the version of politicians who are trying to make political capital out of this incident, and everything to lose by passing reckless judgment upon an act of the President made necessary by the rioting of a few armed hoodlums.

DISTRICT PAY SCALE.

A sound program of municipal expenditures for the next fiscal year can not be prepared without taking many things into consideration. It is not only important that the cloth of proposed expenditures be cut to fit prospective revenues, but how the cloth is cut is of great importance.

Every reasonable economy must be effected to bring the District expenditures once more within the limits of District revenues. Mere reduction in the total of the estimates submitted to Congress, however, does not mean that real economies have been achieved.

The decision of the Commisisoners to return to former levels the salaries and leave privileges of the municipal service is a wise one. The people of the District did not ask Congress to make the so-called economy law apply to the public servants of the District. The injustice of such an application was typical of the ill-tempered spirit in which the law was enacted.

Though certain officials in the District service may have succeeded in having their salaries increased under the various classification acts, it is not disputed that the rank and file of workers in the municipal service receive smaller pay and lesser leave and sick privileges than do workers in the Federal service. The municipal pay scale, small enough before the economy act, should be restored. The Commissioners are to be congratulated on that decision. They should stick to it.

CREDIT MINUS INFLATION.

A turn in the open market policy of the Federal Reserve Board seems to have been taken last week. Since February 24 the board has added to its holdings of Government bonds every week. In recent weeks the amount purchased has been nominal, but last week was the first time since the credit expansion program was inaugurated that the board's holdings actually declined. The decrease amounted to $792,000, leaving the total holdings of the board at $1,850,923,000.

The Federal Reserve Board embarked upon a policy of buying up Government bonds to arrest deflation. At that time confidence was at a low ebb, credit was scarce and the downward sweep of the depression was in full effect. Commodity prices were steadily slipping to lower levels, gold was being withdrawn in large quantities by foreign countries, and the soundness of the dollar was questioned. It was the task of the Federal Reserve Board to force credit into use and thus counteract these destructive tendencies.

For several weeks the board purchased Government bonds at the rate of $100,000,000 weekly. By taking up bonds held in commercial banks the reserve system strengthened the cash position of those banks and made it possible for them to make loans with less apprehension. As the purchase of bonds continued banks were urged to make use of the large supplies of cash they accumulated. Thus credit was made available for an upturn of business at the first opportunity.

It is impossible, of course, to calculate what effect this program has had upon the improvement in commodity prices and the acceleration of business activity. Suffice it to note that the result sought is being achieved. Credit has been forced into many weak spots in the economic structure, giving renewed strength and stability. Many other factors have entered into the improvement of economic conditions, but one can not doubt that this bold credit expansion policy of the Federal Reserve Board has been a vital influence in the battle against depression.

Apparently the board is now convinced that the expansion of bank credit has been carried far enough. The decline in the board's holdings does not mean that it will proceed at once to dispose of the $1,111,159,000 in Government securities that it has acquired in the last six months. If business recovery continues to gain momentum, it will not be necessary for the board to press credit into the commercial machine. Its future policy will be shaped by economic developments.

In applying the credit expansion policy the board has manifested keen insight into economic tendencies. It has been instrumental in turning commodity prices upward without an inflation of the currency. Fanatics would have risked the stability of the dollar in trying to accomplish what the Federal Reserve Board has brought about by a safe and practical method.

Ambassador Mellon says he knows nothing of the world economic conference. This leaves the dread secret in sole possession of Prof. Clarence Skinner.

LONDON'S CRIME WAVE

From the Los Angeles Times.

London town, notoriously slow to depart from ancient customs, still uses old-fashioned methods in coping with crime. It seems that during the month of August the total of "bandit crimes" in this world's largest municipality mounted to 22 and that, while this figure in some of our more modern cities might be the signal for laying off part of the police force on the ground that times were dull, Scotland Yard decided that something would have to be done about it.

The authorities over there apparently know little of the modern manner of dealing with law violation. They seemingly had never heard of card indexing and classifying by number the city's public enemies and apparently were equally ignorant of how a citizens' committee, masquerading as the "Secret Six," "Synthetic Seven," "Elusive Eight" or other alliterative designation borrowed from the cover of a detective story is used to shoulder a part of the burden of the police and most of the blame. Scotland Yard did not even have at its command a psychologist to go into the situation and prepare an article attributing its crime wave to the World War, unemployment or the fact that compulsory closing of bars during certain hours has fostered a general contempt for law and order.

Nor, evidently, does London have police commissioners who have been successful in other fields of endeavor and who may have pet theories for the control of crime. Those who dictate the procedure and policy of Scotland Yard have no other recommendation than a life spent in enforcing the statutes. They have no untried theories to test out—nothing but experience in their own line.

It is quite natural that these men should have gotten into a rut and that, feeling called upon to make a showing, they should have dragged out that antiquated device known as the police dragnet. To form this dragnet 2,000 police officers were taken from their regular posts of duty. Complaints against squawking radios and pleas for aid in retrieving lost dogs probably went unanswered while this army of helmeted "bobbies" formed its line, once known as a cordon, about the city, with orders to halt and question every citizen, law-abiding or otherwise, who was abroad between the hours of 1 a. m. and 3 a. m.

Since the 22 bandit crimes were spread over a period of 31 days it is very probable that not more than five or six persons were involved in their perpetration. Imagine sending out 2,000 officers for the sole purpose of rounding up that number of offenders. Chances are that the police dragnet will bring results, but why shouldn't it with the odds so overwhelmingly in favor of the "bobbies." In any well-regulated city not more than a score of officers would be taken from their regular duties to round up a gang of this size and in all probability would bring them in, although, of course, it would require rather more time than by the British method. But commission of additional banditries would give the smaller force a definite trail to follow and they would eventually round up their quarry, always assuming that the bandits did not leave the city, without a complete disorganization of the entire police system, such as must have occurred in the London drive.

But possibly the massing of the 2,000 London "bobbies" was a grandiloquent English gesture, something to let the world know that Britannica still "rules the waves," including the crime waves.

Prof. Morley, of Columbia University, who heads the "brains department" of the Democratic campaign, will accompany Gov. Roosevelt on his Western trip, carrying a wealth of material, so that there may be no lack of references to "Mother Goose" and "Alice in Wonderland."

The most unkindest cut of all is Mr. McCarl's endeavor to slash the building appropriation, and very questionable, since it was passed after the economy act.

Of course, he's not canceling war debts just now, but if you were Uncle Sam what would you take in real money for the $254,000,000 due from Europe next December?

Maine has had such a good summer entertaining the tourists who didn't go to Europe that Pine Treers scarcely know about the depression, a situation which may also complicate figuring on the State election results.

An encouraging thing is that with rising prices manufacturers can't afford not to buy.

The Mayor of Boston went clear out to Billings, Mont., to speak—no, no billingsgate—just to drop the Curley cue that renewed confidence is due to the certainty that Gov. Roosevelt will be President next year.

THE BALLOT IN A STORM.

A mighty storm came up at sea
The waves rolled mountain high.
The captain troubled seemed to be,
Though clear and calm his eye.
The frightened passengers below
Outnumbered all the crew,
And someone said: "One way I know!
Let's vote on what to do!

"Let's vote on shall we steer ahead
Or turn the ship about.
So great the gale we may be dead
Before the wind dies out."
And some there were with trembling lips
Who said with aching throats:
"It's little that we know of ships,
But still we'll cast our votes."

"I've never been to sea before,"
A man was heard to shout,
"But I shall vote to reach the shore,
To turn the ship about."
Another in illstemper cried:
"A watery death I dread,
The question quickly I'll decide,
I vote to steer ahead."

A little woman calm and brave
Said: "I have children small,
Whose happy lives I want to save,
But I'll not vote at all.
Of ships no knowledge I possess.
I scarce know stern from bow;
But I prefer in our distress

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise: In a few more days you will go back to school. You will be a junior this time, and the greenness of freshmen will make you feel worldly-wise and full of knowledge. Unless you are wary and humble, you may begin to develop the know-it-all complex that burdens the foolish graduate.

Don't overestimate the value of schooling, my dear. Of course your "book learning" will give you an advantage over those who can't read and write, but it isn't the knowledge gained from books that makes your schooling worth while.

"Education" isn't worth much unless it teaches you to think clearly and gives you a thirst for knowledge so that you will continue to learn after your schooling is finished.

A college does more harm than good if it makes the graduate feel educated. If he thinks it a kind of vaccination that makes him forever immune to ignorance, he is doomed to be ignorant all his days.

Nobody tries to improve unless he thinks himself imperfect. If he thinks he knows it all, his days of learning are finished. That is the harm done by colleges. They make their graduates content in ignorance.

The know-it-all graduate is fooling himself. Even if he assumes that his professors are capable of teaching everything, he still fails to know it all. His examination papers indicate that he knows only 85 per cent of it.

Learn as much as you can, but don't get the idea that schools can teach everything. They don't know everything. In fact, their whole stock of knowledge seems trivial compared to the things they don't know.

Men have much yet to learn. In the field of medicine they have found only five specifics—only five sure cures. They don't know the cause of mumps, measles, common colds, cancer, or the ever-increasing plague of mania.

They don't know how the earth was formed; they don't know how man's life began; they don't know the size of the universe or whether it has a limit.

They don't know what makes a seed sprout and grow, or what life is.

They don't even know the cause of lightning and thunder.

People with a little learning "know" these things, but great scientists don't.

If you learn all your professors can teach, you will still be ignorant. Forget that fact and your "education" will stop your mental growth. Remember it and your mind will keep on humbly going to school long after you graduate.

The merit of education is not that it teaches you facts, but that it teaches you to learn. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Tammany Not All.

Boston Transcript.

There are intimations in New York that Tammany sees the handwriting on the wall, and that it proclaims the coming of a day when the ancient organization will no longer have the leadership in the politics of the city. Times have changed since Manhattan was all New York. Not only has the city been enlarged to include the five boroughs, but the growth in population has been in the four outside the island of Manhattan. There population has recently declined.

Tammany held its undisputed sway in the old times and the old city. In the greater city of today, however, Tammany is not all supreme. There are allied Democratic organizations in the outlying boroughs. Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn has his organization in the Bronx, and it is from the Bronx that New York's new and energetic mayor hails. Over in Brooklyn is the King's County Democratic executive committee under the leadership of John H. McCooey, who may cooperate with the Tammany leaders in Manhattan, but is in a position to refuse to take orders from them. So it goes.

In a Nutshell.

Detroit News.

Ratification of either the Democratic or the Republican amendment would make liquor a matter for State control. A State could decide to permit liquor or do without it. The Democratic amendment would permit the saloon, if the people of a State wanted it. The Republican amendment would bar the saloon.

How Soon Is Beer?

New York Times.

How soon is beer coming back? The question is propounded less as a practical than a speculative problem, conducive to animated public debate and social conversation. Mayor Cermak has been inviting the people of Europe to his World's Fair next year, and among other inducements he offers the certainty of real beer. An optimistic New York group is planning to erect a new brewery for next year's trade and for the technical reason that good beer must be aged.

Ultra-optimists would place the date of the Restoration as early as next December. They see Congress, immediately after the chaplain's prayer, declaring 3 per cent beer or 4 per cent beer to be not intoxicating for Volstead purposes, and the beer wagons rumbling very soon after. This is possible, since the present legal near-beer is made by producing real beer and then toning it down.

Inconsistency.

Ada (Minn.) Index.

The Democratic National Convention adopted a platform which does not contain a single word of commendation for the Democratic House of Representatives, and it explicitly and emphatically rejected resolutions which were offered for the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, for the guaranty of bank deposits and inflation of the currency, although measures covering all three of these planks had been passed by the Democratic House of Representatives. And then they nominated the Speaker of the House as a candidate for Vice President!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Layman Fears Another War May Result From European Entanglements.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Perhaps you may be interested enough to print a few words on international affairs by a plain layman. The great question in my mind and, I suppose, in the minds of other laymen, is, Will another world war result from present European entanglements?

And those entanglements are, I imagine, entirely as threatening as Washington had in mind in his famous warning.

Germany and France now stand in a bellicose attitude, with a chip on Germany's shoulder, and, as The Post says, "close students believe that a conflict over the Polish corridor will mark the beginning of another war in Europe." The fact that Germany is not at this time well prepared may convince casual onlookers that an exchange of blows is unlikely. But in regard to this, it is worth while to consider that it is not a Teutonic weakness to indulge in idle bluffs. For which reason I am forced to wonder whether the German government has not something in the nature of secret understandings up its sleeve.

But what I fear is the attitude of the nations which will take opportunist advantage of the situation. It is, of course, something like what the Japs were thinking of when, in seemingly reckless defiance of world opinion, they grabbed off the Manchurian spoils from the Chinese map. It will be a fine opportunity for the realization of the Jap dream of Oriental hegemony. As for Russia, it is foolish to think that she would not take full advantage of such an opportunity to aid and abet her capitalistic neighbors in stultifying themselves. Of course, it is the opportunity to which she has been confidently looking forward.

In my opinion, the Chauvinistic, morose and mercenary mood of other governments indicates that another far-flung international conflict is bound to come, although I suppose most of my lay brothers are not inclined to take that view. But it will not be a world war. Uncle Sam will keep out of it. The great mass of laymen, as represented in the Congress, will attend to that. W. T. T.

Persian Charge d'Affaires Gives Facts Regarding Capture of Americans by Tribesmen and Their Rescue by Troops.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With regard to the reports which have recently appeared in the press about the three American consular officers who were captured by bandits at the Bidsork Pass while traveling to Teheran, and who were then safely rescued by Persian troops, I am pleased to give you the following information in order to clarify the reports and make them more complete:

For a long time it has been a part of the Persian government's general program for reform to bring about the settling down and stabilizing of the nomad tribes, and to reform their mode of living. At rare intervals the authorities in charge of the execution of this plan meet with some fanatical adverse sentiment among tribesmen who wish to preserve their old manner of life. In such cases, of course, it is sometimes necessary to use power to accomplish the program.

An example of this resistance occurred when a group of the Lur tribesmen who insisted on continuing their wild mode of living were pursued by troops and, being forced to leave their encampments, moved far away toward the western provinces of Kermanchahan and Hamadan. This resulted in their unfortunate meeting with a group of travelers, among whom were the American consular officers, on September 2, near Sahneh. In but a few hours, the Persian troops surprised them and, as we know, rescued unharmed the Americans, who arrived in safety at Teheran. The troopers then pursued the brigands and killed 21, captured 8 and dispersed the others.

Obviously, this occurrence is not a result of any kind of unrest among the nomad tribes of Persia, but rather was caused by the combination of particular circumstances. Indeed, all parts of the country reflect a spirit of peace and contentment; even the majority of the important branches of the Lur, as well as other tribes, are disarmed and have settled down in the habits of honest living, according to the prescriptions of the above program.

Personal Testimony Regarding Good Work of Volunteers of America.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This writer would like to commend your editorial in The Post concerning complaints made against certain charitable organizations, particularly the Volunteers of America.

There can be no worthier cause than that which is now and has been carried on by these charitable organizations, feeding hungry men and giving them shelter, regardless of class, creed or color. There is no red tape about them. If a man wants to eat he is welcomed.

This writer has visited all of the missions in person, talking in line and talking with many men, and eating with them. It is an education for those who have not as yet felt the pinch of poverty and hunger. It is hard to imagine what kind of person it is who would raise a voice against such noble work.

End of Malaria Presaged In Two New Preventives

(Associated Press.)

Studies by Public Health Service physicians of the effect of two synthetic compounds show the way may have been prepared for the elimination of malaria as one of the country's major disease problems.

One of the drugs is plasmochin. Experiments by health service scientists and others have proved conclusively, they say, that its use prevents the transmission of malignant malaria.

It apparently also is an extremely valuable preventive agent, the experts claiming that treatment with plasmochin before the bite of a malarial mosquito will ward off the disease.

The other compound is atebrin. Its sponsors assert it clears up malignant attacks of malaria which quinine, for one reason or another, fails to affect, thus reaching a number of cases which have baffled physicians in the past.

Both agents were discovered outside the Public Health Service, but service physicians learned that plasmochin has a sterilizing effect upon the organisms in the blood of a person suffering from malignant malaria. After treatment, the patient, although he may still be ill, can not act as a germ carrier for the anopholes mosquito.

Scientists say the use of plasmochin in the malignant type cases can be compared to isolation of a forest fire—there is no longer danger it will spread to other areas.

Experiments are now being made by service physicians to determine the value of plasmochin as a prophylactic. Reports from State experiments have been encouraging. There seems a strong possibility, the experts say, that the compound may be as effective in preventing malaria as are vaccines in preventing smallpox and diphtheria.

Plasmochin cures the ordinary type of malaria, but apparently has little effect on clearing up the most virulent kind, except that it prevents spreading, the scientists claim.

It is hoped—and felt in some quarters—that atebrin will do the work where plasmochin and quinine have failed.

Foreign News in Brief

Montreal, Quebec, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—United Kingdom millers will oppose strenuously ratification of the agreement reached at the Ottawa economic conference that would impose a two-shillings-per-quarter preferential tariff on wheat without an equivalent duty upon the manufactured article of flour, declared Sir Arthur Holmes, United Kingdom grain authority, in an interview today. Sir Arthur, who was in Ottawa during the imperial economic conference, sailed today for England.

Harbin, Manchuria, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Birgandage along the Chinese Eastern Railway may make it necessary for the League of Nations commission investigating conditions in the Far East to go by airplane from Changchun to Manchuli on the way back to Geneva. As soon as the Japanese, using armored trains, restore one section of the line between here and Manchuli bandits destroy the lines behind.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Swedish steamer Odensholm lay stranded on a reef today 1,000 yards off Burnt Point, pounded by a heavy sea. It was expected that she would break up before the arrival of a wrecking tug due from New York on Monday. She ran aground in a dense fog Tuesday night and jammed between the hulls of two other ships wrecked three years ago.

Leeds, England, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Farmers Union of the West Riding of Yorkshire meeting here today adopted a resolution urging headquarters of the union to demand immediately the imposition of an adequate tariff on all imported meat.

Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Werner Abel, a journalist, lodged court information today charging Adolf Hitler, the Nazi leader, with perjury. The information said Hitler declared under oath that he never discussed the South Tyrol controversy with an Italian. Abel asserted he could prove Hitler gave an interview to an Italian newspaper concerning the dispute over the territory involving the Teuton population there.

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Highwaymen held up a motor truck between here and Matagalpa yesterday, killed the driver and escaped with the load. The driver's helper was badly beaten. He pretended to be dead and came here for help after the bandits had left. The truck belonged to the Matagalpa Transportation Co., which is owned by J. A. Willey, American consular agent at Matagalpa. It was loaded with supplies for the Nicaraguan National Guard in the city.

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—During a recent by-election Count Francis Hunyady, member of a small opposition party, stepped heavily upon the foot of a student named John Hammer, an adherent of the government party. The result today was a duel in the course of which the count received a 5-inch saber cut on the head.

Greenock, Scotland, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, arrived here from the United States today on the steamer Duchess of Bedford. He continued on with the steamer to Liverpool.

Manchester, England, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—F. W. Leggett, assistant secretary of the ministry of labor, arrived here today and began negotiations between the employers and strikers with a view to settling the textile strike in Lancashire.

Mukden, Manchuria, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The two British citizens who were kidnaped by Chinese bandits near here last week have not been harmed, and their whereabouts has been discovered, it was learned today. Wang Tien-Chung, Manchukuo commander, began negotiations for their release.

Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Jan Pilsudski, who resigned as minister of the treasury on Tuesday, was appointed vice president of the Bank of Poland today. He is Marshal Joseph Pilsudski's brother.

Burlington, N. C., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Sam McPherson, 56, an Orange County farmer, shot and killed his wife and 17-year-old daughter today, critically wounded a neighbor and then killed himself.

Knights of Columbus River Outing Is Tonight

A moonlight excursion down the Potomac on the steamer City of Washington will be given tonight under the auspices of the local Knights of Columbus in celebration of the success of their recent golden anniversary convention.

During the convention at the Mayflower last month a similar trip was one of the features of the entertainment for the visiting delegates; but because of the large number attending it was impossible for many of the local members to make the trip. The excursion tonight will be the last this season. A band will furnish music during the trip, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The public is invited.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY OGDEN L. MILLS will carry the Republican campaign to the people of the country in a speech to be broadcast over an extensive network of the National Broadcasting Co. tonight.

Secretary Mills will be heard from Portland, Me., over WRC at 8:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Republican national committee. The program will be broadcast from a political meeting to be held in the city hall at Portland.

Although obviously quite nervous in the presence of the microphone, Richard Walton Tully, who wrote "The Bird of Paradise," told some interesting things about that work which most everybody has seen as a play and will now have an opportunity to see in movie form.

"It took me three years to write my 'Bird'," Mr. Tully said. "The play was originally scheduled for the New Theater, an ambitious enterprise, which failed. The Bird of Paradise was then offered to Broadway managers, but they couldn't see it.

"It was finally produced in 1912, with Laurette Taylor as the first Luana, supported by Guy Bates Post and Lewis Stone. However, the play had rough sledding because of the music. The public was not used to such strange instruments as ukuleles."

In concluding his talk Mr. Tully extended radio greetings to the several Luanas who have appeared in the play from time to time and wished them luck in their present undertakings.

Dolores Del Rio is the latest Luana, appearing in the screen version of the play now being unreeled at B. F. Keith's Theater.

CHARLES A. MILLER, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will be the speaker on the Institute of Public Affairs program (WMAL, 9:15 o'clock) tonight. He will address a coast-to-coast audience on "What the R. F. C. Really Means."

Both WRC and WMAL will broadcast the annual presentation of awards to the D. C. firemen and policemen this afternoon, beginning at 2:15 o'clock. Ten firemen and eleven policemen will receive the Cross of Malta for heroism in the World War. The French government will confer City of Verdun Medals on five policemen and five firemen. The local medals, for outstanding service in line of duty, will be presented to three firemen and three policemen by Gen. John A. Johnston.

A new series featuring some of the outstanding radio and theatrical stars will open on WMAL at 11 o'clock tonight. Cab Calloway and his band is the first attraction. The program will be broadcast direct from the stage of the Howard Theater.

SELECTIONS from the works of three outstanding Russian composers, Tschaikovsky, Borodine and Rubinstein, will be played by a concert orchestra during the broadcast of Erno Rapee in Moscow over WRC at 8 o'clock tonight.

Frederic William Wile will return to the microphone tonight (WMAL, 6 o'clock), broadcasting his regular "The Political Situation in Washington Tonight" series.

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, who commanded the Twenty-seventh (New York National Guard) Division during the World War, will appeal to the American Legion, of which he is a member, to refrain from demanding immediate payment of the bonus in an address to be broadcast over WRC at 7 o'clock tonight.

GRACIE ALLEN says that she took a motion-picture test the other day and that the director wanted her for boys' parts. "What do you mean?" George Burns queried. "Oh," replied Gracie, "they said I was to be in shorts." While this was going on Guy Lombardo's band was playing "Crazy People" as a background.

Greta Garbo Still Mystery to Swedes

Secludes Herself in Contrast With Gayety of Previous Visit.

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Stockholm feels somehow as if it has lost Greta Garbo, for, now that she has come home, she continues the life of seclusion which intrigued Hollywood. The gay, dashing creature who on her first visit dined and laughed at Stockholm's best restaurants has become a baffling, distant apparition, apparently almost secluded.

Once since she returned from the United States she visited the comedy theater where her friend, Karl Gerhard, is the leading actor. And once, it is reported, she made an early-morning journey with a wreath of roses to the grave of Mauritz Stiller, the motion picture impresario who launched her on her career and accompanied her on her first trip to America.

Occasionally she is seen in the streets, always wearing the cape, the low-heeled shoes and the beret. But most of the time she remains in seclusion with her mother and her brother. Even her brother said the other day he knew nothing about reports that she was ill on the island home she has chosen near the city.

H. V. SPEELMAN'S RITES TO BE TODAY

Former Treasury Register and Ohio Editor Was Prominent Here.

Funeral services for Harley Vance Speelman, former Ohio editor and register of the Treasury, who died Thursday at his home at 1652 Hobart street, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Calvary Methodist Church. Interment will be tomorrow at Jackson, Ohio.

Mr. Speelman, who was 67 years old, was a close friend and political associate of the late President Harding. During the early years of his life he was prominent in newspaper work in Ohio, having been editor of the Coalton Times, the Wellston Telegram, the Franklin County Herald and the Marietta Leader. He was active in Ohio Republican circles and also took a dominating part in the organization of the Society of the Sons of Union Veterans.

He was appointed assistant register of the Treasury and later register by President Harding. He retired because of illness in 1928. Here, he had been active in civic affairs, having been president of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association and a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations. He was a member of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church.

Active pallbearers will be Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, H. Theodore Tate, William B. Wells, O. W. Youngblood, Walter I. Swanton and F. Willson Camp. Honorary pallbearers will be commanders in chief of the Sons of Union Veterans.

The Filipinos of Washington, headed by F. T. Amis, have adopted a resolution commending the work of the commission in furthering the cause of Philippine independence.

Pennsylvania Loan Action Is Promised

R. F. C. Officials Say Information Only Needed From Authorities.

(Associated Press.)

Reconstruction Corporation officials said yesterday Pennsylvania's application for a $45,000,000 unemployment relief loan would receive immediate attention "when certain supplemental information which has been promised by Pennsylvania officials is received by the corporation."

Discussing informally the criticism by Gov. Pinchot of the corporation for what the Pennsylvania executive said was "cruel and unnecessary" delay, one official of the corporation said yesterday:

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is disposed to act with the greatest promptness on this Pennsylvania application and other applications when all necessary data are provided by the applicants."

Government Gains In Cash Receipts

Tax and Customs Loss Is Set Off by New Revenue Levy.

(Associated Press.)

Improvement in the condition of the Treasury over the same period of the last fiscal year was shown yesterday despite continued declines in custom receipts and income tax returns. Bolstered by the new revenue act, miscellaneous revenue, along with some curtailment in expenditures, is largely responsible for the bettered condition shown in the Treasury's latest condition statement.

This statement showed miscellaneous receipts for September 6, which included the Labor Day week-end, at $8,314,961, bringing the total receipts from this source to $21,104,679 for the first six days of September, compared with $6,400,576 for the corresponding six days last year.

The total miscellaneous receipts this fiscal year amounted to $118,089,008, representing an increase of about 16 per cent over the $101,597,927 collected in the same period last year. A drop in expenditures from $668,218,403 last year to $623,121,319 for the same period this year also was noted. The indicated deficit of $409,020,228 is more than $14,000,000 less than the deficit of $423,915,889 on the same date last year.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Berets—and ribbons making them! (According to Dah-ray.)

NOW it's time to really get serious about your fall hat! And don't, I beg you, for a single moment think that you can't get away without a new fall hat—oh, at least one—because you simply can't! I don't care what or why, however or whyever. Why, the effect on your morale alone is disastrous. And think not that the few dollars you would save by not buying a new fall hat will ever be noticed or needed in the family budget. But the effect on your nerves surely will be noticed—if you don't have a new hat!

Of course, Clever Fingers can make over her last year's hats—and will and does. But she must be clever about it—detaching the brim, lifting the crown and making it much smaller and tighter—and ever so many things like this.

But if she is even more clever, she will make herself a new hat entirely. Couldn't you make a couple of ribbon, like the ones I sketched for you today. Why, they are easy to make, with just the least little bit of practice!

And as to the chic of the ribbon hat, let me tell you, it's there! Velvet or satin, or grosgrain ribbon, and the Rue de la Paix will envy you as you go. For 'tis Paris itself that decrees the ribbon hat, little believing that your own Dah-ray can tell you how to make ribbon hats for your very own self!

Just tell you what you do. Cut out this illustration, and then sit down at your desk and make out a stamped, self-addressed envelope, which you send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And when you get the illustrated leaflet back which tells you how to make these ribbon hats that I sketched for you today, then try your luck out in cheaper ribbon, and see where you get. Probably after the first attempt you will be so letter perfect that you can up and make yourself a Paris hat out of good ribbon—and a most becoming one, too.

Sh-h-h-h, you can make one of the cheaper hats for less than $2—and believe me, it won't look a cent less than $10! Better send for the leaflet just this once, and see whether you can or not actually make a hat from Dah-ray's directions.

The Beauty Sorceress.

How I wish all my grandchildren would try almond meal on their faces, just once! Why, it is the best all around cleanser, skin food and astringent ever offered by nature herself—and so inexpensive, too. Just ask for it by that name, almond meal, at the pharmacy. Then, a teaspoonful at a time—put a warm face cloth to your face to open the pores just a bit. Then take a teaspoonful of almond meal, make a paste of it in the hollow of your hand with water, and rub this onto your face—in an upward movement, of course. Then when it is all on and in, leave it so for a good half-hour. You will feel it drawing out every single blemish, as well as tightening the skin like face clay does, but with none of the drying effect. Wash it all off with tepid water, and then just tell me what you think of my advice!

If you have but one fall dress, let that one be the coat dress with its four decidedly different aspects—four dresses in one, and each one of them chic and becoming and stylish. There are some of the leaflets left, so send your stamped, self-address envelope for this design if you haven't already done so.

Au Revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Readers' Beauty Queries Answered.

"I AM 18 years old, tall, slender and have tried almost every method I know of to gain in weight and become strong, but no matter what I do it seems I can't get heavier. Please give me as many pointers as possible on how to gain, and also medical advice which may help me for that purpose. And also can you tell me how to get rid of moles besides going to a doctor."

C. M. U.

Dear C. M. U.: Medical advice is not within my province at all. I would by all means suggest that you see your physician and get a complete physical examination. People who are very much under weight should start their weight-gaining regime with an examination by a doctor to see just what the trouble is. Eat nourishing foods, don't worry and don't exercise strenuously. Get plenty of fresh air and rest. Your doctor could also help you with the moles. They may be removed successfully by electrolysis, but let him suggest a specialist. Moles should not be tampered with at home.

"I am 14 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall. Do not put on any make-up except when going to a party, as I am quite tall for my age and look older. I have medium brown eyes and olive skin. What shades of powder, rouge and lipstick should I use, and what colors. Name the ones that should suit me best, first."

A. B. C.

Dear A. B. C.: I would suggest that you use no rouge at all, and a dark rachel powder to match your skin, a medium or dark, red-orange lipstick and not too much of it. As for colors, dark red should suit you best, red-orange, red-violet, wine and warm rose-beiges should be excellent. Black with a touch of color is good. Avoid vivid blues, dead white, gray and colors lighter than the skin. I have a complete color chart if you wish to send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

* * * *

BOOTS.

Dear Boots: Your first question has been answered many times in this column. Exercise is the only thing I recommend. Arm swinging is excellent. Tennis and golf and swimming. You can have my complete set of exercises for a self-addressed, stamped envelope. To remove hair from arms and legs, there are any number of depilatories on the market. I have a superfluous hair bulletin if you wish to send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for it. The information will serve you in good stead for the coming social season.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

FOR WATCHFUL PARENTS.

PARENTS, watchful of their children and anxious to have them escape the serious hazards which beset them, will be interested in a report issued by the New York City Health Department. This report classifies the fatalities for three years—1929-1930-1931—by ages.

Over one-half of the deaths of babies under 1 year of age are the result of diseases of the mother and baby before birth, or accidents and diseases chargeable to birth. Of the remaining 45 per cent of the deaths in this period of life, nearly one-half are due to pneumonia. Diarrheas, indigestion and summer complaint cause only one-eleventh of the deaths. The digestive disorders of babies, once so important in baby life, have become of less than secondary importance. Babies are in much greater danger from colds and coughs, and other diseases of the breathing apparatus.

However, the greatest need is for better care of expectant mothers, partly on the mother's account and partly as a protection for the baby.

In young children, that is, from 1 to 4 years of age, pneumonia outranks all other hazards. One-third of the deaths are due to that infection of the lungs. The bowel disorders are only one-third as important. What a child breathes is much more important than what he eats, as things now are.

The "catching" diseases rank second, causing 29 per cent of the deaths. Accidents cause 12 per cent, ranking second only to pneumonia and the contagious diseases.

Children between 5 and 9 years of age pay heavy toll to accidents, fully one-third of all the deaths being accidental. Boys pay twice as high a toll as do girls. The contagious diseases rank second, causing about one-quarter of all deaths. Pneumonia is third, being responsible for 12 per cent, and digestive troubles are somewhat less important, causing 11 per cent.

In the group who are 10 to 14 years old, there is great difference between the hazards that threaten boys and those that endanger girls. One-third of all the fatalities among boys are the result of accidents. Fatalities of girls account for only one-third that proportion. Heart disease ranks second, but it causes 19 per cent of the deaths among girls, and only 12 per cent among boys. Infectious diseases are more dangerous to girls than to boys, but this is all due to consumption, a disease that is twice as fatal to rapidly growing girls than to boys of the same age. Pneumonia averages 11 per cent when the figures for the sexes are combined.

Then come digestive diseases. In this age period two diseases appear for the first time among the important groups. They are appendicitis and rheumatism, each being responsible for about one-fourteenth of all the diseases. If we include in the consideration those diseases from which recovery is to be expected, the common cold, coughs and sore threats are at the head of the list.

ICE AS A PURIFIER.

J. W. P. writes: 1. If the water of a lake is unsafe for drinking, will freezing in winter so purify it that the ice is safe to use in drinking water? 2. Are there any lawful restrictions on sale or use of natural ice?

REPLY.

1. Freezing destroys most of the bacteria in water within a few hours. The remainder die off slowly. As a rule, ice that has been stored one month is safe. That stored five months can be depended on unless the original water was exceedingly foul.

2. Health authorities have standards for natural ice. These usually include sanitation of waters that are to be frozen, and of the shore wash, sanitation of ice storage, and laboratory standards of the product. Ice is rarely a source of infection.

BLEEDING GUMS.

A Reader writes: What causes gums to bleed when no pressure is exerted on them? What can be done to correct this?

REPLY.

There are several causes. An important one is scurvy. Another is pyorrhea. One that is not often encountered now is mercury poisoning.

CAUSES OF DROPSY.

J. K. writes:

1. What causes dropsy?

2. If a person has dropsy both in his legs and abdomen, can it be cured with the proper care?

3. Would a certain climate help?

REPLY.

1. There are many causes of the symptom commonly known as dropsy. Among the more important are heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver.

2. Dropsy is a bad complication in any disease. However, it often happens that treatment of the basic disease causes the swelling to disappear.

3. Climate is not of much value in the treatment of most of the diseases which bring about dropsy.

CAUSE OF SNORING.

C. S. writes: How can I overcome snoring? I usually sleep flat on my back, without a pillow.

REPLY.

Try sleeping in other positions. That may be the only treatment needed. When one sleeps on the back, gravity pulls down the lower jaw and opens the mouth. Breathing is divided between the nose and the mouth. Two-way breathing causes snoring.

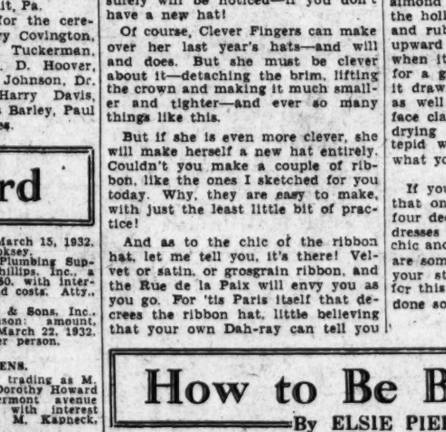
CREATING ENTRIES.

LUCK, plus a little foresight and accurate play, permitted Mr. Lloyd Smith, of New York, to make an overbid Grand Slam on the hand discussed today. These qualities are both essential to success at Bridge. The element of luck is one entirely beyond our control. Foresight is something of which we may all have the benefit. This is the reason that I so frequently stress the importance of making a plan of the play of a hand as soon as the Opening lead is made and the Dummy is exposed on the table.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



Mr. Lloyd Smith.

The bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
4♠(1)	Pass	5♠(2)	Pass
6♠(3)	Pass	7♠(4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) The correct Opening bid.

(2) Perhaps a slight overbid, although the hand is very tempting, as it practically assures not more than one loser in diamonds and has first round control of the other two suits.

(3) Also optimistic.

(4) Certainly an overbid. North has no right to anticipate that South holds the Ace of diamonds.

West's Opening lead was the club King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy, but before winning this trick Mr. Smith planned his play with the object of, if possible, finding a place to discard his three losing diamonds. It was obvious when he studied the Dummy that, while it might be possible to establish the heart suit for discards of his losers, the question of reentries into the Dummy, when that suit was established, was a vital one. There was a slight chance. If the outstanding trumps were divided between the adversaries and not more than four hearts were held by either, Mr. Smith thought that he could see daylight, and thus planned his play.

For the second lead, he led the Ace of hearts and returned to his own hand by ruffing a heart with the trump Queen. There appeared a chance for the hand. He therefore reentered the Dummy by leading the 7 of spades, overtaking with the King, and both adversaries followed suit. Now nothing prevented the making of the contract. Another heart was led and trumped with a high trump, and the Dummy put in by the lead of the fourth round of hearts, which dropped the last adverse stopper in that suit. Dummy was then put in with the lead of the trey of spades, of the deuce of trumps for the lead and the three diamonds discarded on the three established hearts.

Through the exercise of foresight and the perfect execution of an accurately made plan, Mr. Smith made his contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

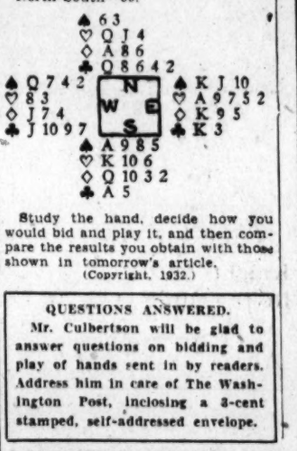
South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
North-South—60.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 8:10 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 7:50 p. m.

The planetary influences of September 10th will produce a reflective, rather than an "up-and-doing" mood, contemplative thought and not aggressive action, will inure to your benefit. Worries will be dissipated or minimized. Plans will be bettered. Trouble is foretold among engaged couples and dissension is indicated among relatives.

A child born on this September 10th will, in its early years, be a source of unceasing trouble and worry to its parents. They need not despair, however, as adolescence will be the time when it will take a tumble to itself, and mend its ways and change its disposition. In spite of early drawbacks, this child's horoscope is distinctly favorable.

You, if born on this September 10th, are extremely sensitive to your surroundings, and the equability of your disposition depends on a harmonious and pleasant environment. To do the best of which your are capable, whether in the home, the office, or the factory, you must count on perfect order and a liberal supply of the right sort of tools. You are a dead failure when called upon to "make-shift."

You are imaginative to an unfortunate extent. Even when enjoying excellent health, you are always suspicioning the existence in your system of some terrible malady. Patent medicine vendors thrive on people of your type. You are more than ordinarily keen about making or marrying money, which is not, by itself, a source of real happiness and is often the root of evil. If your desire to amass riches is not properly curbed, it may lead you to do things which had better be left undone, sour your disposition, and affect your whole outlook on life.

You are endowed with good, generous impulses, and a clean mind. These, unless you allow them to be distorted by baneful influences, will provide you with your just meed of contentment. Your nature is affectionate, and craves a full measure of reciprocity.

Youth Held as Poisoner Of His Sweetheart, 18

Poplarville, Miss., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Charges that he gave fatal poison to his 18-year-old sweetheart, Luella Sones, sent Early Reyer, 20, to a cell today over his protestations of innocence. Coroner J. B. Davis testified at a preliminary hearing that an autopsy showed the girl's death was due to poison and the youth was ordered to jail without bail, pending a grand jury investigation.

Her father testified her last statement just before she died the night of August 21 was: "Early gave me some medicine and said it wouldn't hurt me and it is killing me."

Byrd Act Provides Total of $6,106,733 for 96 Counties in Plan.

Under the Byrd road act, Fairfax County, Va., will have $150,535 allocated for the construction and maintenance of its secondary road system, it was announced yesterday at Richmond by the State highway department.

The total allocations for the 96 counties that accepted the Byrd plan is $6,106,733, which is $157,139 more than these counties spent in 1931 on their roads.

Arlington and three other counties, which refused to operate under the Byrd plan, will receive no money and will continue to build their own roads from funds from gasoline levies and gasoline tax allotments as they did formerly.

The allocation to Fauquier County was $151,034. Capitol Heights Lacks Official Government

Capitol Heights, Md., is without an official governing body due to the resignation of three town councilmen. Loss of the three councilmen has reduced the town council to less than a quorum and even the resignations can not be acted upon. The quorumless council likewise can not order another election to fill their places.

Mayor Thomas Luckett last night said that he, Town Clerk Edward Hamilton and Town Treasurer Clinton G. Light will govern the town. All expenditures except those absolutely necessary will be stopped. One of the executive's first steps will be to pay the overdue interest on the town's bonds and current bills, he said. Mayor Luckett promised to have a surplus of $2,000 in the town treasury by spring.

Study of County Budget Is Slated

Subcommittee Is Named to Scan Montgomery's Fiscal Program.

Study of the budget adopted by the Montgomery County commissioners for the current year will be made by a subcommittee of the committee on finance and budget of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, Stephen James, chairman, announced yesterday. Members of the subcommittee are John A. Dickinson, John A. P. Farnham and H. S. Yohe.

The subcommittee will report at the next meeting of the committee. Members of the board of county commissioners and the board of education will be invited to the meeting to go over the budget and explain the items, Mr. James said.

The finance and budget committee also plans a study of the 4-cent tax added to the county tax rate for the metropolitan area for road bonds and will make a report at the meeting of the federation Monday night in the Bethesda school. Mr. James said that the tax had been added in pursuance of authority granted by the General Assembly for minor road repairs and maintenance. The committee also has discussed the reduction in county teachers' salaries and has conferred with Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, on the subject. The reduction probably will be discussed at the meeting Monday night of the federation.

Gordon to Appeal Cemetery Action

Plans to Fight Montgomery Court's Ruling Against New Graveyard.

Fulton R. Gordon, Washington real estate dealer, has appealed the decision of the Montgomery County Circuit Court in upholding a demurrer in his suit for an injunction to bar interference by the county commissioners with his plans for establishment of a cemetery at Bradley boulevard and River road.

Judge Robert B. Peter, in circuit court at Rockville, sustained the demurrer filed by the counsel to the county commissioners, which alleged that Mr. Gordon had no ground for action, since he had not filed an application for such a permit and consequently had been deprived of no rights.

Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the circuit court, is preparing the transcript of the record for submission to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

MILITARY POSITION IN SCHOOL SETTLED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The question of the appointment of a professor of military science and tactics in the Alexandria high schools was apparently settled last night when the board voted to request the commanding officer of the Third Corps Area at Baltimore to have detailed to the Alexandria schools an officer of the Regular Army, and designated as assistants to the P. M. S. & T. Ian M. Coleman, a Reserve Army officer, graduate of the Citadel at Charleston, S. C., and Sergt. Benjamin Patterson, of the Regular Army, who has hertofore acted in this capacity at the George Mason High School.

It had been expected that Col. R. H. Leavitt, of the staff of the commanding general, Third Corps Area, would attend last night's meeting, but instead he telephoned that headquarters would arrange to have a Regular Army officer detailed to Alexandria.

Gardner L. Boothe, member of the board, expressed the belief that any officer detailed to Alexandria should be allowed to select his own assistants, but his motion was lost. Dr. John T. Ashton, who is a lieutenant colonel in the Reserve Corps and a member of the board, agreed with Mr. Boothe. He also called attention to the fact that there is employed in the Alexandria High School as a teacher a recent graduate of the United States Military Academy, who has been retired from the Army on account of physical disability, who probably would be more acceptable.

Greyhound Station Hearing Ordered

Utilities Board to Consider Arguments on Terminal Projects Sept. 22.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday issued notice of a public hearing September 22 on the application of the Greyhound Bus Lines for permission to construct a terminal on the north side of New York avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

The hearing was scheduled after a conference between the commission officials of the street railways, and counsel for Greyhound and Short Lines, Inc., which previously had been denied a permit to establish a terminal at the same place.

C. Melvin Sharpe, of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and F. X. Murphy, attorney for the Short Lines, objected to the Greyhound's application, whereas John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., said he had no objection to the location of the proposed bus terminal. Representatives of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade and the Merchants and Manufacturers Associations also endorsed the project.

Laymen showing the greatest knowledge of Bible facts will be awarded gold prizes. A silver offering will be taken. The Rev. E. M. Tyre is pastor.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

LOEW'S FOX

By NELSON B. BELL.

The lads have rhythm!

I mean when Abe Lyman and his two dozen California Boys—and ah natty a group as ever graced a Washington stage they are—cut loose with their sizzling syncopations, red-hot novelties and rousing chorals, they are just as apt as not to bounce an audience right out of their seats and set them to dancing in the aisles. That's the kind of a band it is—clean-cut, both personally and musically; precise, peppy and spontaneous, all at no sacrifice of genuine musicianship. Only two comparable organizations have been heard locally—Waring's Pennsylvanians and Horace Heidt and His Californians. I wouldn't be sure that Prof. Lyman's aggregation wasn't accorded the most enthusiastic reception of them all at yesterday afternoon's first performance.

Yesterday's first program had its generous sprinkling of hot tunes, but was no less notable for the operatic burlesque based on "Piccolo Pete," sung as a male sextet, the exceptionally deft arrangement of "Song of the Bayou" and the concluding male chorus medley of familiar airs from "The Student Prince."

Next in popularity in the stage portion of the bill seemed to be Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, making his first Washington appearance in many years. The ample Mr. Arbuckle, a little older, a little less ebullient, and perhaps not so generously rotund as formerly, is assisted on the stage by the former Addie McPhail (Mrs. Arbuckle), and from a stage box by Jack Shutta, one of the most skillful of the current crop of stooges. A considerable amount of Mr. Arbuckle's material could do with a bit of renovation, but his banter, singing and imitation of the Pat Rooney waltz clog clicked in a big way with the capacity audience. There could be no question of the heartiness of his welcome, although it fell something short of an ovation.

On the screen is a story that combines the germs of two engrossing film plays and therefore exerts a two-fold interest. "70,000 Witnesses" is especially timely in its utilization of the football theme and the crucial game between rival colleges as the basis of its action. But it goes further than that in making sure its appeal by developing a first-rate murder mystery right before the very eyes of the audience out front as well as the 70,000 rooters packing the Olympic Stadium. By virtue of such foresight it just naturally can't miss! The piece is particularly well played by Phillips Holmes, Lew Cody, Johnny Mack Brown, Dorothy Jordan, David Lanrau, J. Farrell MacDonald, Kenneth Thomson and Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, with Charlie Ruggles galloping away with comedy honors in one of his best performances as a thoroughly potted newspaper reporter and radio announcer.

Other vaudeville acts include Arthur Le Fleur and a sprightly blonde in an extraordinary gymnastic offering; Luis Zingone, sleight-of-hand artist, and a good one, and June Carr, assisted by Dan Harden, in her familiar exhibition of madcap dancing.

The Fox Movietone News and Phil Lampkin's rejuvenation of the "Orpheus" overture, one of the hits of the bill, complete an entertainment that is just about as lethargic as a streak of lightning.

EARLE

"DEVIL AND THE DEEP." Paramount picturization of a story by Harry Hervey, adapted to the screen by Benn W. Levy, starring Tallulah Bankhead, with Gary Cooper, Charles Laughton and Cary Grant. Directed by Marion Gering. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Although this is perhaps the most substantial vehicle in which she has appeared before the cameras and microphones, Miss Tallulah Bankhead still would be vastly benefited by more discerning story selection in her behalf. Surely there must be a play somewhere with a smile in it that could be secured for her stellar uses. I am taking it for granted that Miss Bankhead CAN smile—otherwise than with the inscrutable cynicism of the confirmed defeatest!

"Devil and the Deep" presents its star in the role of a suspected young wife, married to a madman who happens to be in command of a naval base off the northern coast of Africa. He is insanely jealous of any man, subordinate in the service or otherwise, at whom his wife is so indiscreet as to look twice and habitually places the wrong interpretation upon even the most innocent of her social contacts. One lieutenant he sends away in disgrace; his successor, played by Gary Cooper, is not quite such easy prey, and upon that circumstance hinges the whole crux of the drama, its sultry domestic conflicts and its melodramatic climax in a rammed submarine 30 fathoms deep on the floor of the ocean.

This is a suitable framework, of course, for tense emotional drama with a sprinkling of incident that is genuinely exciting. My objection to it is that the play throughout its length is a drama of dejection, unhappiness, suspicion, frustration, and discomfiture. There is not a happy moment in it—until the final fadeout—for any member of the cast, or those viewing it from the orchestra chairs, either, for that matter.

Miss Bankhead, in the role of the harassed wife, gives another of her drab, broad "a" performances, unvaried from a dead level of dejection and unenlivened. Gary Cooper, as the monosyllabic young lieutenant who finally put his commander in his place, also is inclined to be just a trifle desultory. Gary Grant, as his predecessor, however, gives the impression of rather more than half believing that somewhere the sun may yet be shining.

The most compelling performance in the cast, and the least likable, is contributed by the British newcomer, Charles Laughton, in the role of the deranged commander, whose insanity gradually becomes homicidal. It is a precious bit of villainy that Mr. Laughton offers and he executes his distasteful chore with both skill and conviction.

As star of the vaudeville bill appears a comedian who is familiar on both stage and screen, Billy House is a funmaker whose versatility embraces clowning, singing and dancing, all of which are made use of in his sketch, "Resolutions," a New Year's eve farcical fantasy, in which he is supported by a clever cast of four.

Others introduced by Miss Maxine Doyle, all done up in blue and white, include Adelaide Hall, "the crooning blackbird," assisted by two male pianists of her own race, in a series of song stories, hot numbers and "scat" choruses; Fortunello and Cirillino, the "Happy Hooligan" acrobats, and Audrey Wykoff, aided by her father and grandfather, in "Dances of Today, Yesterday and the Day Before," an interval of speedy hoofing.

The Universal News, with Graham McNamee, and Harry Sweet in a little lunacy called, "Just a Pain in the Parlor," augment a bill that is completed by a lively orchestral prelude.

COLUMBIA

"A MAN'S LAND." Allied Picture Corporation Alnization of a story by Adele Buffington, starring Hoot Gibson, with Marion Shilling, "Skeeter Bill" Robbins and Ethel Wales. Directed by Phil Rosen. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McAvitt.

If you like to hear the staccato hoof beats of hard-ridden Western cow ponies over hills and mountain roads, the mad bellowing of the stampeding herd, the crack of .45 and .30-.30 guns in the air, the wild chase of the sheriff's posse after the villainous cattle rustlers, rough cowboy pleasantry and long-moustached, pseudo-suave arch-villains, then we respectfully recommend this cow-punching tale of the great open spaces.

Hoot Gibson, as "Tex" Mason, a straight-shootin', rough-riding son of the cow country, has a half interest in the Three X Ranch, near Redstaff, Ariz. His Eastern partner dies and leaves his share to his daughter, who comes to Arizona with the avowed purpose of sterilizing this particular branch of the beef industry by remodeling it as a dude ranch. "Tex" Mason didn't like this high-handed and nonsensical suggestion of the pretty partner, "Peggy" Turner, nor several more similar attempts to interfere with the conduct of the ranch.

The Redstaff banker and real leader of the rustlers, who wants to buy the ranch, does a fine job of influencing the feminine member of the partnership against the honest but gruff "Tex" Mason. This complicates matters, the tempo increases, the villains become bolder and the deluded heroine makes things difficult for her partner.

In our opinion, the laurels go not to the principals, but to the actors of the comedy roles. Ethel Wales, as Aunt Flossie, might not have been as screamingly funny as Louise Fazenda in a like part, nor was the brand of drollery used by "Skeeter" Robbins as apt to produce pains from laughter as the comic ability of the obese Eugene Palette, but this duo does a great job of provoking merriment.

Norman Brokenshire, the announcer, describes the interesting travels of Pictorial Encyclopedia's "Here, There and Everywhere," "Shocking Affairs" proved more irritating than shocking, and the Paramount News completed the bill.

METROPOLITAN

"HORSE FEATHERS." Paramount picturization of a story by Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby and S. J. Perelman, with music and lyrics by Kalman and Ruby, starring the Four Marx Brothers, with Thelma Todd and David Landau. Directed by Norman McLeod.

Proving beyond cavil that late summer really is the year's silly season, this masterpiece of inspired lunacy entered its second week yesterday with the walls of the Metropolitan Theater still bulging from the first week's crowds and laughter!

Gaited to a breakneck speed, bursting occasionally into song, instrumentalism or grotesque dance, "Horse Feathers" consistently refuses to make sense but never even fhomentarily fails to create laughter that wells from the deeper reaches of the anatomy and rumbles and roars throughout the footage of an hilarious surrender to nonsensical clowning, inveterate "gagging" and just a wee pinch of dirt.

Groucho Marx makes his debut as a college professor intent upon rescuing his son from twelve years of higher education—principally at the hands of a beautiful blonde. Chico is a bootlegger; Harpo a dog catcher, and Zeppo the son with the penchant for college widows. If you can't concoct a delirious hour and a half from that combination, the only solution is to go see for yourself!

The bill is supplemented by a Technicolor tabloid revue, "C'est Paris;" a new issue of the Paramount Sound News and "Rambling Around Radio Row," in which a group of broadcast artists are shown doing their stuff.

One for the book, this bill.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN Miss Alison Skipworth scored so emphatically in the title role of "Madam Racketeer"—still visible in the neighborhood theaters—it was the popular impression that this admirable character actress would be rushed immediately into other vehicles similarly contrived to accentuate her rare endowments as a comedienne. Some even went so far as to envision her as another Marie Dressler who would climb to dizzy heights in what was presumed to be the twilight of her professional career. So far, the thing just hasn't come off.

ALISON SKIPWORTH.

Alison Skipworth has been contributing delightful characterizations to Broadway productions for something like 30 years. Off and on she becomes America's champion transcontinental commuter. Last year she made a few over half a dozen round trips to the Coast and now has about given up all thought of ever settling down.

Twenty years ago she decided she'd soon find herself ready for retirement and, with a canniness worthy of her Scotch forebears, determined that when the time came she'd be prepared to keep the wolf from galloping clear down the hall and having kittens!

So she invested her savings in a chicken farm on Long Island, intending to live there as soon as her stage popularity showed signs of waning. The joke seems to have been on her. For a whole decade she never had leisure to live on her farm longer than a very few weeks at a time.

She says that every time she settled down to reading poultry journals she was lured back to Broadway to read a new part. Once she was lured to Hollywood, long, long ago, to appear in "Raffles." After that assignment she went home, but was soon called back again and that has been the way it has been ever since.

"I'm past the point," says this lively veteran, "of caring how I look or what I play. My salary is $1,000 a week. For that I'll be an extra, work in blackface or be the off-stage voice!"

All of which, of course, is very interesting. But when do we get another "Madam Racketeer?"

By every right, it seems to me, this should be designated "Comeback Week" at Loew's Fox.

In the first place, there is Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, coheadlining the vaudeville bill with Abe Lyman and His Band, who has not been visible to the naked eye on either stage or screen for lo, these many years, although I believe those in the know have identified his directorial efforts from time to time under the transparent nom de theatre of Will B. Goode, or William Goodrich, or something like that.

Then in the feature picture, "70,000 Witnesses," are two more who haven't been seen since goodness knows when—Walter Hiers and Stuart Holmes. Mr. Hiers, his cheeks ballooned to the dimensions of a full moon, is cast merely as an impressively large gob of college atmosphere; Mr. Holmes as the physician called in briefly to announce that he doesn't know why Johnny Mack Brown dropped dead out there on the field when within a scant 15 yards of a touchdown. It wasn't so long ago that both boys were 'way out in front.

In watching the sobered and subdued "Fatty" Arbuckle that occupied yesterday afternoon's stage, he gave me the impression of a man who has been punished enough for a lamentable lapse that occurred a decade ago. As a matter of fact, I am not sure but the period of penance has endured so long that it is too late now to do much of anything about it, as far as a revival of the comedian's once great popularity is concerned.

The kids that reveled in "Fatty" Arbuckle's tomfoolery back in the early 1920's are well along toward maturity now; the youngsters who now are the age they were then, know "Fatty" only as a vague sort of legend—if at all. To try to pick up where he left off, at this juncture, would be to begin all over again.

And, to many, it is an ill-judged gesture in the direction of maudlin sentimentality to use "Auld Lang Syne" for the Arbuckle entrance and exit music and a set or two of lyrics detailing all he has to be thankful for, in his songs. The one has the sound of a plea for pity; the other of a request for applause. Roscoe Arbuckle is enough of a performer not to need either.

Jack Shutta, the stooge who works with him from the stage box, by the way, is a brother of Ethel Shutta, with Eddie Cantor in "Kid Boots" and "Whoopee," and, by that token, a brother-in-law of George Olsen the bandman.

That Wykoff dancing act at the Earle this week is a boon to the old-timers out front. Audrey Wykoff, a chubby little blonde, is an acrobatic dancer of the first water, her ostensible dad does a bit of hoofing reminiscent of George Primrose at his best, and her alleged grandpappy steps out with a little triple-time buck dancing that knocks the house for a mess of barrel-rolls, no less. And how do I know but they are her father and grandfather?

A few nights ago Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in Washington and a lieutenant colonel on the staff of the governor of his State, might have been discovered hosting Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, Ga., his home town, and Al Belle Isle, one of the political leaders of the Georgia metropolis, in his refrigerated suite of offices in Loew's Fox Theater. Both visitors were members of a party that arrived by plane Tuesday with Senator John S. Cohen, editor of the Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Barron was presenting a Key to the city, sort of, as you might say!

HIGHWAY MACHINERY TRANSFER ARRANGED

State Will Spend $17,333 More on Fairfax Roads in Return.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors held a special meeting yesterday afternoon and conferred with representatives of the State Highway Commission relative to the transferring of the county-owned highway equipment to the State. This action was taken under the provisions of the new State law establishing the secondary highway system, of which Fairfax County is a part as a result of an election on August 9.

Under terms of the agreement reached yesterday the county will receive no money for its equipment, but an additional $17,333 will be spent on the county roads during the fiscal year and the equipment will be given to the State department, excepting the county quarry equipment, which will be sold at public auction.

The county will retain the road equipment depot, which will be used for county activities. It is expected that it will be used as a county school repair and equipment depot and a school bus storage plant.

The State Highway Commission will also allocate Fairfax County $25,000 for the State equalization fund established by the new road law, which will be spent on the secondary system of the county during the present fiscal year.

Oil Station Holdup Nets Robbers $120

Manager of Place Warned to Give Up Cash on Penalty of Death.

Two young men, one armed with a revolver, last night held up the proprietor of a filling station at Wisconsin avenue and Brandywine street northwest, and escaped in a waiting automobile with more than $120.

Raymond M. Bradshaw, manager of the station, told police he was preparing to close up when the men drove in. One of them, he said, stepped from the machine, and producing a gun ordered him into the office.

Once inside, Bradshaw declared, the man demanded cash on threat of his life. Bradshaw told police he surrendered about $125 from a cash drawer. Warned not to move, that he was being watched, the man calmly walked to the waiting car and the pair fled along Wisconsin avenue.

Bridge Will Be Replaced.

A new bridge will be constructed to replace the bridge which collapsed under the weight of a 10-ton gasoline truck Monday at Branchville. It was announced yesterday by James S. Heal, clerk to the Prince Georges County Commissioners. The new bridge is to cost about $1,600 and will have a clearance of at least 19 feet. It will be built by John Berberick.

CIRCUS COMING HERE IS IN BLADENSBURG

D. C. Orphans to Be Guests of Post Next Week at Hunt's Show.

With a showing in Bladensburg today, Hunt's three-ring circus nears this city where it will play for more than a week at various locations throughout the city. The "big top" of the Hunt organization, which travels in a fleet of nearly three-score motor trucks, started going up this morning for the Bladensburg performances just outside the District line.

Hunt's circus is now on its fortieth annual tour. During that time it has never changed title, ownership, and Mrs. John Hunt, 78, wife of the founder of the show, is an active participant in its management. Mrs. Hunt sells tickets, attends every performance and generally personifies the watchword of troupers, "The Show Must Go On."

Four generations of Hunts are with the show. Some compose the Equestrian Hunts, top-notch riding act, while others are concerned in various parts of the circus. Other acts include those of John Lancaster, 76-year-old comic, known as the dean of American clowns; elephants, ponies, dogs and other menagerie attractions. Acrobats and trapezists are also on exhibition.

Next week several hundred orphans in District institutions will be guests of The Washington Post at various performances of the circus. The matinee at Bladensburg begins at 2 p. m. and the evening show at 8 p. m.

His motorcycle skidded and threw him. He was taken to Casualty Hospital by Justice of the Peace Robert Altemus and Corporal C. W. Cubbage.

COCHET-ALLISON IN DEADLOCK AFTER VINES WINS

Nats Trounce Blaeholder To Win

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—The Nats staggered into their second straight victory of the series against the Browns today after amassing a commanding lead in the early innings. The score was 6 to 4 and represented Washington's twentieth win in its last 26 games. The Nats lopped another half game off the second-place lead of the Mackmen, who are now in front by only a game and a half.

General Alvin Crowder was breezing along with hardly a care for seven innings during which he had permitted only five safeties, but in the eighth he departed the premises amid a deluge of St. Louis blows that netted three runs and Marberry was called in to stave off the rally. He did, and Brown pitched the ninth with no further damage recorded.

A six-run lead compiled in the first four innings had enabled the Nats to withstand the belated assault of the Browns in the eighth, which followed a homer into the stands by Campbell in the sixth.

Blaeholder Victim of Early Attack.

George Blaeholder was the first victim of the Nats' early uprising, but Carl Fischer, an old teammate, also figured in the run scoring in a philanthropic way, presenting the Nats with two runs in the third by the simple expedient of losing his control and walking two batters with the bases full, which by the present method of scoring sent two runs across the plate.

The Nats assumed the leadership in the second inning when Joe Cronin led off with a double to left. Kuhel and West could not advance him, but Bluege responded with a single that scored the first run. Taking second on the throw to the plate, Bluege scored also when Spencer singled to center.

The next inning saw the Nats win the ball game, as matters developed. Rice singled and Manush doubled, scoring one run. Cronin walked and Blaeholder was extracted from the proceedings in favor of Fischer. Fischer walked Kuhel, filling the bases, and then became a slave to the habit, also passing Bluege and Cronin, to force two more across.

Crowder Scores After Double.

Crowder's double starting the fourth was turned into another run on Rice's sacrifice and Myer's single, and the Nats' scoring activity halted for the day.

In the eighth the Browns aroused themselves. With two out, Campbell singled, Goslin singled and Ferrell doubled, scoring two; Melillo singled and Ferrell scored. Marberry replaced Crowder, walked Scharein and then disposed of Levey on a fly to Rice to quench the threat. Brown pitched the ninth, and the Browns had the tying men on base with one out, but Campbell struck out and Goslin filed to Rice.

World Series Start Is Set Sept. 28 at No Cut in Price

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—If, as appears likely, the Chicago Cubs furnish the opposition to the New York Yankees, records for attendance and gate receipts figure to be shattered in the forthcoming world series, which, it was decided today, will open on Wednesday, September 28, at the Yankee Stadium.

Since the Yankees last appeared in the series in 1928 the big Bronx ball park has been enlarged so that its seating capacity is 69,946, and the maximum "gate" $234,000, figured on the customary championship scale of $1.10 for bleachers, $3.30 for unreserved portions of the grand stands, $5.50 for reserved grand stand seats, and $6.60 for box chairs.

Magnates Favor No Price Reduction.

Meeting today with Commissioner Landis, the magnates decided to make no change in the price of tickets. Thus, a capacity turnout for the opener or at any other game in New York will eclipse the record of 63,600 cash customers, set at the Yankee Stadium in 1926, and the mark of $224,130 for gate receipts, made in 1928 at the same park.

Representatives of the Yankees and the Cubs manifested principal interest in the discussion of world series arrangements. No other American League club was represented, but Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, still possessing mathematical chances in the National League race, had their delegates on hand for contingent purposes.

On the subject of ticket prices, Col. Ruppert said: "We saw no reason for reducing prices. Baseball is still one of the cheapest and best entertainments afforded the public. Three world series games can be witnessed for less than what it costs for one ringside seat to a big fight."

New York Scene of First 2 Games.

Assuming the Yankees win, the first two games will be played September 28-29 at the Yankee Stadium. The next three will be played October 1-2-3, if Chicago is the battleground for the National League, or September 30, October 1 and 3 if Pittsburgh gets in. The sixth and seventh games in New York would be played October 5-6, with the Cubs participating, or October 4-5, with the Pirates involved.

All games will start at 1:30 p. m. (standard time).

Ruth Rests Easy; Thinks of Series

Appendicitis Fear Subsides, Temperature Normal, Trainer Reports.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth, baseball's great warrior, rested in his tent today sufficiently recovered to think again of world series battle fields while the pains in his side, carrying a threat of appendicitis, subsided.

His condition apparently was improved to such an extent that no further official bulletins were issued, although he was visited twice today by his physician.

Mrs. Ruth reported the Babe still was held incommunicado, but was resting easily and thinking of recovery and the opportunity of slugging whatever team wins the National League pennant in the annual world series, his tenth, starting here September 28.

Artie McGovern, Ruth's trainer, said that Ruth's tempearture had dropped to normal. The Babe, he said, slept well last night and was quite cheerful, happy to be back at home while the Yankees are touring the West.

MISS HOLM SETS RECORD.

Tempe, Ariz., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Eleanor Holm, of New York, established a new world record of 2:57.8 in retaining her women's National A. A. U. 220-yard back stroke title here tonight. The previous mark, held by herself, was 3:00.6.

Police and Firemen Nines to Clash Today

The ninth annual baseball game between the Police and Firemen will be played this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Griffith Stadium. Proceeds derived from the fray will help swell the unemployed fund of the city.

Today's contest, incidentally, is the "rubber" game of the series. The copers triumphed in the first four games, and the smoke-eaters retaliated by taking the last four played.

Frank Watt, former major-leaguer with the Philadelphia Nationals, is slated to hurl for the Police. Tubby Ault will be his battery mate. Calvin Hull, veteran pitcher, and Paul Burthe, who has been behind the plate for the Firemen in the last six games of the series, will start for their team.

Memphis Protests Ruling of Landis

Chattanooga Wins Disputed Game, Involving Title in Southern League.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The bitter Southern Association pennant race became a battle of technicalities as well as baseball play today, bringing Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis into the heated dispute between the pennant-contending teams of Chattanooga and Memphis.

Overruling Southern directors, who, in turn, had overruled John D. Martin, Southern Association president, Landis directed Chattanooga and Knoxville to play off today at Chattanooga the unfinished game of their Labor Day double-header.

Thomas R. Watkins, president of the Memphis Club, announced before the game, which resulted in a victory for Chattanooga, that he had formally protested its playing in a telegram to President Martin. Watkins boarded a train tonight for Chicago, saying he hoped Commissioner Landis would grant him a hearing of his contentions.

If the game is allowed to stand, Chattanooga is favored to win the pennant. The Memphis Chicks took a 2-to-1 victory from New Orleans today, but still would lose the pennant if they win their final games tomorrow and Sunday, should victory also favor the Lookouts on those two days.

If the protested game is ruled out, Chattanooga can not win unless the Chicks drop one of their remaining games.

Keyman of Back Field Breaks Collarbone in Scrimmage.

Special to The Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 9.—The fourth injury to a regular and the most serious since the George Washington University football squad started practice here today found Lee Carlin, No. 1 back field man, the victim. Carlin was injured in a scrimmage game and was rushed to the George Washington Hospital, in Washington, where he was found to have suffered a broken collar bone.

Thus Carlin will be lost to the Colonials, facing their toughest schedule in years, for at least a month which means he will not be available for the Washington and Lee game which opens the schedule and the all-important clash with Alabama on October 8. All this probably flashed through the mind of Coach Jim Pixlee as he rushed Carlin to the hospital in the family car.

Carlin, a senior, is the keyman in the Colonial back field. He is a dependable ball carrier, kicker and passer and his work stood out in the Alabama and North Dakota games last year.

Tackle Is Cause Of Injury.

It was while showing his best form that Carlin was hurt. He broke through the freshman line, reversed his field and apparently had a clear road to a touchdown when Clair Bentley, a freshman giant, tackled him heavily.

The other regulars on the hospital list and in various stages of recuperation are Joe Carter (sprained ankle); Capt. Wayne Chambers (twisted knee); ZuZu Stewart (twisted knee).

President Cloyd Heck Marvin, of the university, was a visitor here today.

Deviating from the time-honored custom of a lengthy drill in fundamentals, Coach Tom Mills, of Georgetown, yesterday put three teams to work on plays the Hilltoppers will use in the coming campaign. Mills was not pleased with the offensive work in the earlier stages of the 1931 season and is determined that Georgetown will be hitting on all cylinders when it clashes with Mount St. Mary's in the opening game.

Al Kelly, track star who is having his first fling at the grid game, is coming along nicely under Mills' tutorage and shows promise of developing into a fine half back.

Maryland's work was confined to a light signal drill. The battle for the regular center berth between Johnny Mitchell and Tommy Webb, former Western High School star, enlivened the proceedings. Mitchell almost won the job from "Skip" Faber last year.

Vaul Rouzer, 250-pound guard, whom Coach Byrd is depending on to strengthen the line, is expected to report Monday.

Forty-two football huskies are to turn out this afternoon when Catholic University stages its initial gridiron workout at Brookland bowl.

Inasmuch as Athletic Director-Head Coach Arthur J. ("Dutch") Bergman entertained yesterday for the rules interpretation conclave in New York, today's 2 o'clock session will be supervised by Line Coach Forrest Cotton, End Coach George Vik, and freshman football coach and intramural athletic director, Eddie LaFond.

Tigers Defeat Yanks Twice, 14-13 and 4-1

Detroit, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Tigers outlasted the New York Yankees in another baseball marathon today and won both games of a doubleheader, 14 to 13 and 4 to 1.

The first battle went 14 innings, like yesterday's opener, and required 4 hours and 2 minutes. The second was called because of darkness as soon as the necessary 4½ innings had been completed.

CUBS' 5-2 WIN IS 21ST FOR WARNEKE

Chicago Now Has 6-Game Lead; Rookie Beats Braves.

BOSTON, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs increased their lead in the National League pennant race to six games today, as they defeated the Braves, 5 to 2, in their final clash while Pittsburgh was idle.

Lonnie Warneke, young right-handed pitching sensation, held the Braves in check to win his twenty-first game of the season, while Chicago made two well-timed attacks on Huck Betts, Boston's veteran "rookie." Warneke gave nine hits but allowed the Braves few chances to turn them into runs. Betts was touched for twelve safeties, seven of them bunched in two innings.

The Cubs got off ahead in the third with two tallies. Warneke singled and stopped at third on English's double. A single by Gudat, who played right field in place of Hazen Cuyler, brought both in. Cuyler injured a leg sliding home yesterday.

SLEUTHS WIN FINAL GAME FOR TITLE

G. P. O. Held to 1 Hit by Colliflower in 9-4 Defeat.

BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION won the championship of the Departmental Baseball League yesterday by winning over Government Printing Office, 9-4, in the third game of the titular series, one of the worst played in several decades.

Eddie Colliflower, who couldn't find the plate in the first game, which G. P. O. won, had trouble locating it yesterday, but not as much trouble as the Printers had in locating Eddie. Sole made the only hit credited to the losers.

Sensational Rally Defeats Sutter in U. S. Semifinals; French Ace Tied in 4 Sets

Vines, on Brink of Defeat 4 Times, Finally Triumphs, 4-6, 8-10, 12-10, 10-8, 6-1; Darkness Halts Allison's Bid.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

WESTSIDE TENNIS STADIUM, Forest Hills, L. I., Sept. 9.—The beautiful pipe dream which American tennis fans have been forming all week—the expectation of seeing Ellsworth Vines defend his national tennis championship against the world's ranking No. 1 player, Henri Cochet, remained only half completed today.

Vines, in the bitterest match of his dynamic tennis career, reached the final round by beating Cliff Sutter, tenacious Tulane collegian, in five immortal sets of tennis, but Cochet, crafty wizard of a thousand tennis wars, was held even by Wilmer Allison, U. S. Davis Cup star, at two sets apiece when play was called on account of darkness.

Cochet, a victim of his own supreme ego, in toying with his opponent when a few decisive shots would have given him the second set of his 6—1, 10—12, 4—6, 6—3 unfinished match, will play Allison the fifth and final set tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, the winner to meet Vines in the afternoon. It is the first time in recent tennis history that darkness has caused a semifinal round match to go over until the next day.

10,000 Fans Treated To Thrills.

Ten thousand rabid fans, with more than a tennis gathering, mobbed the big stucco tennis mecca to witness the semifinal rounds and were treated to some of the greatest thrills, and also some of the shoddiest tennis,

WAYLAYER'S STRETCH RUN WINS LINCOLN FIELDS PURSE

Siskin Third After Delay At Post

Waylayer Wins After Trailing for Most of Six Furlongs.

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., Sept. 9 (A. P.).—A rousing stretch run today gave A. A. Baroni's Waylayer a thrilling victory over a good field in the Will County Handicap at Lincoln Fields.

Waylayer was a bad actor at the post, refusing to enter the gate. After a delay, the 3-year-old son of Waygood-Beacon was taken to the outside. He trailed the field until the stretch turn of the 6 furlongs. Then, under plenty of urging by Jockey Wayne Wright, got up in time to take the Reichert Brothers' Brown Wisdom by a length, with Siskin, the favorite, third.

Varied Card Tomorrow In Sycamore Regatta

An attractive program of seven events has been arranged for the annual regatta of the Sycamore Island Canoe Club, which will be held tomorrow, starting at 2:30 p.m. The island, which lies a short distance off shore in the Potomac River near Glen Echo, is easily accessible by auto or street car, and will be open to the public.

Swimming exhibitions and life-saving demonstrations by qualified experts will be alternated with the various events listed.

The program includes junior and single one-man races, and tandems, senior tandem, club fours, mixed doubles, and tilting.

Amateur canoeists of the Potomac River, this city and Maryland are eligible to compete. Canoes will be furnished by the club if necessary.

Gold medals will be awarded the winners of each race, and runners-up will receive bronze medals.

BARRY VS. GODWIN.

Donald "Reds" Barry, Washington heavyweight, will meet Bob Godwin, former Southern light-heavyweight champion, in one of the preliminaries of the Walker-Schmeling fight at New York September 19.

Barry originally was scheduled to fight Arthur Huttick, of New York, on the same card.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Both horses were scratchd yesterday and the bank rolls remained the same, Asbestos' $26.68 and Joe's $139.25. Today Asbestos plays one that has been scratched seven times and he is praying for mud.

A. G. BARRETT - PHILA - THANKS - PERHAPS YOU ARE RIGHT - AND WE APOLOGIZE - BUT SOME DAY WHEN "REPAID" GETS A BREAK AT THE BARRIER AND TRIMS ALL THESE NAGS THAT BEAT HIM IN THE "HOPEFUL" AT SARATOGA, YOU'LL THINK OF ASBESTOS AND REALIZE THAT HE WASN'T GUESSING WHEN HE TRIED TO PUT THE SPORT FANS WISE TO A REAL HORSE THAT NOBODY CONCEDED A CHANCE - REMEMBER - ASBESTOS PICKED "WAR HERO" TO WIN THE PREAKNESS - AND ALTHOUGH BAD LUCK SPOILED HIS CHANCES THAT DAY - HE HAS SINCE TRIMMED ALL THE CHAMPS AT SARATOGA AND IS PROBABLY THE BEST 3 YERR OLD TODAY

PETE B - THANKS FOR YOUR INFO BUT WE DOUBT IF THE TIP HAS COME FROM THE TRAINER OR OWNER OF THAT HORSE. IT COSTS $10 A DAY TO CARE FOR A RACE HORSE AND FEW STABLES CIRCULATE ANY INFO ON THEIR STEEDS. RACING IS A BUSINESS AND KNOWING TRAINERS AS WE DO - FEW OR NONE OF THEM BUT ANY

LESTER RICE - THANKS FOR THE SUGGESTION OF HAVING JOE SPECIFY THAT ALL BETS ARE OFF, IF TRACK CONDITIONS CHANGE OVER NIGHT - HIS SECRET HANDICAP FIGURES DIFFER ENTIRELY ON MUD AND FAST TRACKS - AND OVER-NIGHT RRINSTORMS HAVE BEEN THE CAUSE OF MOST OF HIS LOSING DAYS

S. L. - SORRY, BUT YOU HAVE BEEN MISINFORMED - WE HAVE NEVER REVEALED JOE'S SECRET HANDICAP SYSTEM IN THIS SPACE - NOR HAVE WE EVER PROMISED TO DO SO

ROY BEATLEY - ATTA BOY - YOU WIN THAT BET OF A "WORLD'S SERIES TICKET" IF ASBESTOS HITS THE $60 00 MARK AGAIN BY OCT. 1ST. HE'LL TRY HIS HARDEST FOR YOUR SAKE

MARY SHILLER - DON'T WORRY - JOE'S UNCLE IS NOT GOING TO MAKE ASBESTOS PART WITH HIS HORSE. YES, UNCLE IS A BLUE NOSED REFORMER BUT THE BOYS WILL SOON HAVE THE GOODS ON HIM - WAIT AND SEE

M. GOFF - YES, IT IS VERY RISKY TO PLAY A JUMPER. THE MAIDEN JUMPER THAT WE PICKED LAST MONDAY IS BEING POINTED TO COP THE "HARBOR HILL" STAKE AT AQUEDUCT

H. McMAHON - PHILA - SORRY, BUT WE CANNOT BE OF ANY ASSISTANCE TO YOU. WE HAVE REC'D MANY SUCH LETTERS FROM FANS WITH HANDICAP SYSTEMS - AND THEY ARE PROBABLY VERY GOOD - BUT WE DO NOT KNOW OF ANYONE INTERESTED IN PUBLISHING "SYSTEMS"

SAM S. - BOOKMAKERS HAVE AN OFFICIAL PRICEMAKER WHO BASES HIS ODDS ON REPORTS FROM HIS PRIVATE CLOCKERS - "MUTUELS" ARE MUCH BETTER BECAUSE THE PUBLIC MAKES THE PRICES - THE ODDS ON A HORSE BEING DETERMINED BY THE AMOUNT OF MONEY BET ON HIM IN THE MACHINES. AT NEW YORK TRACKS - A HORSE IS VERY OFTEN HELD AT THE SAME LOW ODDS EVEN IF NOBODY PLAYS IT.

OH - WE FORGOT TO MENTION TODAY'S BETS - Asbestos bets $1 win on Seths Ballot at Lincoln Fields; Joe, $2 win on Chuck B at Dade Park.

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, SEPT. 9.

My picks took a drop yesterday. I had second horses first, third horses second, and first horses third, but I only had one first horse first. That was Hatteras, and I am duly thankful to that animal for saving the day. Now that I've confessed, Al, I'm going to let you in on something. I see by the papers that the entries for the third at Timonium include a maiden named Kanem. That, my boy, is the spot, or I was kidded at Marlboro. Crack down, Al, crack down.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—Forced to stick with ADVISING ANNA until I find how good (or how bad) she really is. MELOY may upset the cold dope by placing ahead of IN HIGH.

SECOND RACE—BAGSMASHER is assigned top weight of 118 pounds but after his string of victories I can't afford to get off him. LA SALLE may be the one to cause the top one trouble although MARTIE FLYNN is apt to awake.

THIRD RACE—I think the hatpin system would be appropriate here. However, I'm forced to name something. FLYING CADET, THREAT and CHARLEY O. are as good as any.

FOURTH RACE—And while I'm sticking to the hot horses I'm not letting PIGEON HOLE get away. This one has six in a row now and I'll put him on top until he loses. LITTLE AMERICA has returned to best form and is the most dangerous. BROAD MEADOWS for the show.

FIFTH RACE—SWEET SCENT comes over from Hawthorne with a fine record and a world of speed. Ready to take care of these I believe. My old friend, CATHOP, may be the place horse. MERRILY ON to take the show.

SIXTH RACE—SWITCH appears best of this group. CURMUDGEON to gain the place award before EL PUMA.

SEVENTH RACE—DEEMSTER is my longshot special here. Don't ask any questions. Just hop aboard. TREK and ULTRAMARINE to take care of the others.

EIGHTH RACE—I think I have found the spot for LADY GIBSON, one of my weaknesses. LAFERIA and LOW GEAR to battle for the place.

Stocks Pushed Into Decline By Selling After Advances

Gains Superseded by Loss of 1.7 Points in Sale of 4,038,210 Shares.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Stocks again felt the pinch of selling orders today, but not until the list had gone through a fairly general rally.

Trading was most active in the last hour, when holders were taking profits and when offerings for the short account seemed to be on the increase. Many brokers thought a reaction would at least have the merit of strengthening the technical position. Also, they wondered how much higher the market could be expected to go without fresh impetus from business news.

Weekly mercantile reviews offered some cheerful comments on the state of trade and sentiment. Copper still acted sluggishly in the foreign market, which may have been partially responsible for heaviness of metal shares.

Taking the day as a whole, stocks moved irregularly. When the tone was better it was the rail group that did most of the leading, although a few specialties jiggled upward. At its best, the general list was 1 to 3 points higher; the range of net losses was not quite so wide, averaging into a decline of 1.7 for 90 leading issues, in a turnover of 4,038,210 shares.

Net recessions amounted to around a point in United States Steel, American Telephone, General Electric, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Case, Woolworth, Consolidated Gas and North American. Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting were heavier; so were National Biscuit, United Aircraft and Westinghouse. Detroit Edison took little notice of its dividend cut, the possibility of which was made known three months ago.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Unfavorable continental advices and lower overnight Wall street news caused a marking down of prices on the stock exchange. After some realizing in the forenoon renewed support in British funds caused a more active market and transatlantic issues improved. The closing was steadier. Imperial Chemical shares were better on the dividend declaration.

Paris—Prices on the bourse reacted on Wall street news, profit taking lowering quotations in several sections. Rentes resisted well, but bank shares, electric issues and Rio Tintos were down considerably. Royal Dutch and Suez issues yielded slightly, and the market closed heavy.

Berlin—Trading was quiet on the bourse and prices slightly weaker. The close was lower.

BONDS DRIFT LOWER IN LIGHTER ACTIVITY

Market Is Off Two-tenths as Sales Decline to $10,507,000.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Activity in the bond market dwindled today and prices in the final hour showed an inclination to drift irregularly lower.

Some of the industrials gave a fairly good account of themselves and a number of the better grade utilities improved moderately. The railroads, however, after an early appearance of firmness, lost their enthusiasm.

Sales totaled only $10,507,000 par value, and the average for 60 corporate bonds was off two-tenths of a point.

The railroads apparently paid little attention to the announcement that the carrier officials meeting in Chicago had agreed to post notices for a 20 per cent wage cut effective next February.

The heaviest turnovers in the rail section were in St. Paul Adjustment 5s, Chicago & Northwestern 4¼s and Nickle Plate 6s. The latter bonds lost 1¼ points while the St. Paul issue sagged ¾ and the Northwestern loan gained ⅛. Most of the carrier prices changes were around a point or less.

Moderate improvements were recorded by bonds of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American Metals, Bethlehem Steel and Columbia Gas.

The United States Government department was fractionally higher. Foreign obligations were somewhat reactionary, especially the Germans, French, Polish, Argentines and Australians.

Bank Failures During Week At Lowest Ebb Since March

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The lowest weekly total since March in bank failures was reported today by the American Banker, which stated that 9 had suspended operations, against 15 last week.

"It is significant," said the publication, "that March is the low month of the year for banking casualties, and that the first two weeks of that month had 29 suspensions as compared with the 24 which have taken place the past two weeks. Twelve banks have suspended to date in September."

Bank closings for the year to date total 1,081 and there have been 185 reopenings, 6 having recommenced in the past week.

Listed Bonds in August Gain $1,457,499,716

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange announced today that the total market value of all listed bonds increased $1,457,499,716 during the month of August.

On September 1 there were 1,580 bond issues listed on the exchange, with an aggregate market valuation of $40,072,839,336. There were 1,579 listed issues August 1, with a total market value of $38,615,339,620. The par value of the listed securities on September 1 totaled $51,863,419,183.

CURB PROFITS TAKEN IN SELLING FLURRIES

Volume of Trading Reduced to 460,000 Shares as Advance Halts.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Renewed bullish activity was thwarted by a late selling flurry in today's curb market. The list followed yesterday's pattern, although on a somewhat smaler scale. The turnover of 460,000 shares was some 200,000 less than transfers of the previous session.

Electric Bond & Share was sent up 3 points, but it reacted to lose its gain, and close off a small fraction. American Gas & Electric and United Light A were higher turning much of the day, but finished about steady. In light trading, losses of 1 to 2 points appeared in Commonwealth Edison, Cleveland Electric and Northern States A.

Oils were also somewhat depressed. Efforts to move these issues of late have met with little following, presumably because this is the season when gasoline consumption normally declines.

In the industrials Alumnium Co. rose to 80, then fell back to close at 71¾, off 6 points net. A few lower priced issues were bid up, but this group as a whole was wobbly in the late trading. Among the chain stores, Great Atlantic & Pacific closed 7 points higher, in a few transactions.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A net gain of $6,652,600 in the Nation's monetary gold stock was shown in today's report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Release of $5,988,400 in gold from foreign earmark was responsible for most of the gain. In addition, there was an import of $37,200 from Mexico, and the bank was also informed that San Francisco had received $617,000 from China.

WHEAT VALUES HOLD ALMOST UNCHANGED

Evening Up to Bar Surprise on U. S. Report Provided Strength at Close.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—It was a nip-and-tuck struggle in grains today, ending in a draw.

Evening up to prepare for any surprise in the Government crop report, due after the close, had a late strengthening effect, but selling poured into the wheat pit on all advances.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ off to ⅛ up, compared with yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅛ to ¼ lower; oats unchanged to ½ to ⅝ down, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

The Chicago-Liverpool December wheat spread widened today to 2⅝ cents, the greatest difference shown between the two markets in more than six weeks. Another stimulating factor was word that Poland's wheat crop aggregated but 56,000,000 bushels, against 83,000,000 last year.

Brisk export demand for Canadian wheat was noted, sales being placed at 1,500,000 bushels or more, and some concern was voiced abroad as to smallness of shipments from Argentina and Australia. Uneasiness continued that blocking of exports from the United States would result in a new record carry-over on July 1 next.

TAKOMA BANK PLANS TO BUILD NEW HOME

Citizens' Board Will Erect 2-Story Structure; Work to Begin Soon.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Officers and directors of the Citizens Bank of Takoma Park, Md., plan a new home for that institution, it was learned yesterday. Plans and specifications have been prepared for a handsome two-story building to be erected on the present site of the bank at the intersection of Carroll and Laurel avenues. The estimated cost of the structure has not been revealed. Permission to build and establish building lines has been requested from the Maryland National Park and Planning Commission and it is believed work will start soon.

Besides ample space for the banking facilities of the Takoma Park institution, the building will contain room for five stories on the ground floor, and fourteen offices, all with outside exposure, on the second.

The structure will be of brick trimmed with limestone. Date of invitation for bids on the project has not yet been announced.

Safety Box Department.

Provision for 200 safety deposit boxes and large, burglar-proof vaults will be made in the bank which will occupy the western part of the building with a banking house frontage of 30 feet in the rear of the stores. A corridor will connect all of the stores and the bank lobby. The design of the building which will be thoroughly fireproof, will be modernistic. Plans are now on exhibit in the lobby of the present banking house.

The bank's new building committee is composed of Peter Remsen, L. V. Lampson, Henry E. Allanson, H. H. Votaw, Dr. Wade H. Atkinson and Col. F. E. Pope. Organization of a holding company which will be incorporated, to issue $50.000 in 6 per cent accumulative preferred stock has been proposed and it is stated that much of this already has been subscribed.

Bank to Hold Stock.

All common stock will be held by the bank and proceeds from the sale of the preferred stock will be used to finance the building project.

There was a reorganization of the bank, organized in 1924, in January, 1931, and a steady growth in deposits is reported from that time to the present. Officers of the bank are Luther S. Cannon, president; Lawrence V. Lampson, vice president; Abner L. Shaw, cashier; H. J. Carr, assistant cashier; S. E. McNeil, secretary.

TRADE SEEN FACING NEW AUTUMN GAINS

Broader Activity Is Expected as Fears of Further Declines Lessen.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Business enters the fall season with a well-sustained confidence and a promise for a broadened activity, the weekly mercantile reviews said today.

"While actual activity in most lines remains below last year," said Bradstreet's, "signs point toward a gradual upturn rather than a further decline, which occurred at that time. Commodity prices do not as yet show slackening from their advances which in some cases have been sensational. Bradstreet's commodity index as of September 1 showed the largest advance since July, 1925—a movement far too marked to be ignored. As for actual business activity, textiles and shoes still remain the brightest spots."

According to Dun's, the expansion of the trade movement now has attained sufficient breadth to give assurance that "it rests on a firm foundation," and September brings a feeling of greater security than has been in evidence at any time in the last two years. Reports from scattered parts of the country, this review asserts, reflects a steadily improving condition in many areas with small towns and cities in agricultural and live stock sections showing the greatest facility in following the quicker stride of general activity.

Ideal fall weather, says this review, sped the rebound in retail trade this week. Noteworthy in the current demand is the marked tendency of the buying public to buy better merchandise and the loss of interest in "distress" offerings.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

LIKE the fictionized Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's court, an eclipse saved the life of Reginald Livesey, English explorer. Livesey, with two friends and a native guide, was exploring in Queensland in the 1870's when a band of hostile natives set out after them. Livesey's party was able to elude the natives for three days, but on the night of the third day the band caught up with them.

In the moonlight the natives prepared to attack, and just as their leaders began to rush the Englishman's party, a black shadow crept silently over the face of the moon. The attacking natives, 600 in number, thought the eclipse was the Englishman's magic. They fell back in disorder and fled.

When the cry of "mad dog" was heard throughout the State, and persons of every walk of life were in constant fear of being the next victim of the malady, a John M. Crous came forward with what he claimed was a cure for the incurable disease. So grateful was the State of New York that its legislature in 1806 voted $1,000 for Mr. Crous.

His "cure" was compounded as follows: The pulverized jawbone of a dog; the ground-up tongue of a newly foaled colt, and the green rust scraped off the surface of an English penny of the reign of George I.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

REALTY MEN SEEK WIDER RENT INQUIRY

Senator Is Told Tax Rate and Assessed Value Should Be Part.

Possibility that the special investigation of the Washington rent situation now being conducted by a Senate subcommittee might be expanded to include a more intensive inquiry into prevailing tax rates and assessed valuations on local properties was developed at yesterday's hearing at the Capitol.

Real estate operators appearing before the subcommittee argued this correlative matter should be gone into to make a fair and cimplete investigation. Rentals, they contended, often are based on the rate charged on the assessed valuations of their buildings. These valuations, they hold, in many instances to be "exorbitant."

While realtors declared that there was no agreement between them, that no "blacklist" prevailed and that when rents in a building were reduced in order to get new tenants the reductions were made effective to old leaseholders, Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, said that he had evidence on several points to the contrary.

Object to Questionnaire.

Testifying before Senator Copeland and Attorney Oscar H. Brinkman, the committee's special counsel, leading real estate operators criticized the questionnaire sent out by Brinkman and requested that they be excused from answering certain "unessential" questions and that they be allowed to submit additional material which they felt would make the hearings "fairer." This included material on the assessed valuation of their buildings.

Senator Copeland, the only member of the subcommittee present yesterday, ruled that the real estate men should answer the questions sent them to the best of their ability, saying that, "We are not expecting the impossible." He further stated that the committee would be interested in other material they might wish to submit, especially the data on tax rates.

Bowie First Witness.

Before the hearings ended the realtors said that they would give the matter their immediate attention sending in as much material within the near future as they could gather.

The first witness called, J. F. M. Bowie, vice president of H. L. Rust & Co. and president of the Real Estate Board, pointed out that the real estate men are now in the midst of their busy "renting" season and that it will be difficult to quickly prepare answers to detail questions requested by the subcommittee. He further said, however, that the Real Estate Board would use its influence to have its members cooperate with the committee.

Randall H. Hagner, president of the firm bearing his name, stated that at the present time 23.2 per cent of the properties his company rented were vacant and that he believed this was about an average for the whole city.

Others who testified included Morris Cafritz, H. G. Smithey, J. W. Jacobs, of the B. F. Saul Co., and a representative of Bliss Properties.

Fire House to Get New Traffic Lights

System for Engine Station on Thirteenth Street to Be Installed Soon.

Two new traffic lights and a system of controlling traffic in front of the new fire engine house on Thirteenth street between K and L will be put into operation shortly, it was announced yesterday by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer.

The lights will control the north and south bound traffic, the director said. Operation of the lights will be controlled from the engine house when the apparatus leav to respond to an alarm. The lights will be located so that firemen will not be delayed in making the turn into the street.

If the apparatus is to go south the flashing signal of the lights will warn motorists to clear the intersection at Thirteenth and K streets. The lights at Thirteenth and L streets will flash only when the companies are northbound.

TWO GIRLS SEIZED FOR RED SPEECHES

Denied Permit, Young Communists Attempt to Hold Street Session.

Police promptly stifled the attempt of a small group representing the Young Communists League of Washington to hold a meeting at Fourth and N streets northwest last night, for which they had been denied a permit. Two girls in their teens were arrested on charges of speaking in a public place without a permit and disorderly conduct.

Nearly a score of policemen, led by Lieut. Frank Varney, of the Second Precinct, were on hand waiting for the gathering, and when Sylvia Roth, 17, of 1337 Seventh street northwest, jumped on a soap box and began to talk to the large crowd attracted by the concentration of policemen, she was placed under arrest.

Miss Roth was taken to Fourth street and New Jersey avenue. There she screamed for "free speech" and "freedom for the Scottsboro boys and the Logan Circle boys." Florence Playton, 18, of 1337 Seventh street northwest, joined her tirade and was promptly arrested. Both were taken to the Second Precinct Station in the patrol wagon.

Members of the Young Communists League said that Police Inspector L. I. H. Edwards had denied their application for a permit to hold the meeting and that an appeal to the Commissioners had failed. They said the gathering was to celebrate International Youth Day. Lieut. Varney said the purpose of the meeting was to protest the indictment of six Negroes alleged to have beaten Park Policeman Kennedy to death at Logan Circle last month.

Dry Informer Held After False Tip

Detective Buys Man Big Dinner, Then Finds Information Wrong.

Left in the lurch to the extent of a chicken dinner and a number of cigarette butts, police have arrested James Felton, 32, colored, self-styled liquor informer for investigation in connection with a racket which is said to have cost prohibition agents a large su during the last month.

On return for information on a carload of imported liquors which Felton claimed had been brought into Washington, Detective Guy Rhone furnished the dinner and a number of smokes, but when the huge whisky-laden car yesterday proved to be merely imagination the colored man was arrested.

An investigation into his activities revealed, according to police, that he had mulcted sums of money from hibition men in exchange for tips on previous occasions.

McCarl Pay Ruling Accepted by Doak

Comptroller General Says One-Eleventh Must Be Deducted.

Secretary of Labor Doak yesterday accepted the decision of Comptroller General McCarl that one-eleventh of each employe's salary must be impounded and deducted despite admitted "inequalities." The Department of Labor is the only Government department now pursuing the five-day-week plan.

The department is now in the same classification with the Navy Yard, the Federal Farm Board and the Civil Service Commission, which tried the five-day plan for a while. Instead of deducting 8.3 per cent, or one-twelfth, of the employe's salary—as is done in the 5½-day plan—the Labor Department employes' salaries will be reduced one-eleventh.

McCarl's insistence on the one-eleventh cut caused the Civil Service Commission to forsake the plan, it was said. Secretary Doak said yesterday that his department would continue the short-week plan.

Doors Smashed In Gambling Raid

Two Detectives Slightly Injured as Windows Are Broken Also.

Breaking their way into an alleged gambling establishment at 704 O street northwest yesterday, Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle and Detective J. K. Baker, were slightly injured by broken glass and after corralling more than 50 occupants of the house, they went to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Located on the second story of the premises, Detective Ogle battered his way into the place through a barricaded window. His partner broke through a series of heavy doors to gain entrance. A large number of persons were found in the room, which was said to contain gaming apparatus.

A man who gave his name as Mickey McDonald, 33, of 1418 W street northwest, was arrested and charged with setting up gaming. He posted a $2,000 bond. Others found in the house were released after questioning.

Mrs. McCoy Leaves $22,600.

An estate of $22,600 was left by Mrs. Kate Philbrick McCoy, wife of former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, when she died at Brooklin, Me., August 20. It was disclosed yesterday when her husband filed a petition for probate of the will. The estate is to be divided between the former chief justice and four children.

B.E.F. TRIO ADMITS CAMPS HAD ARMS

District Grand Jury Renews Inquiry; Gun and Small Weapons Exhibited.

A renewed investigation of the events preceding the ousting of B. E. F. marchers from their camps here last July was begun yesterday by the District grand jury with the testimony of three members of the group, who say they saw dynamite, guns and rifles stored in various encampments in the city.

The three were Philip Acceturo, of Detroit, Mich.; Peter Kreis, of this city, and William E. Manning, a colored World War Veteran. Manning's testimony was considered the most important of the three. A fourth marcher is expected to testify as soon as he recovers from a lung ailment that is now confining him to the Mount Alto Hospital.

A German rifle that was dug up from the ruins of the Anacostia camp, where it had been pointed out by Manning, figured in yesterday's testimony. The rifle's butt had been partially burned off and it was rusty from its stay in the ground. Small arms also were exhibited as having been found in places where they had been cached by marchers.

Manning testified that he arrived here with the Oregon contingent. He said that he first saw weapons about the middle of July, just ten days before the eviction of the marchers. He declared he did not see any veterans using the weapons during the ejection of the B. E. F. men from their Government-owned quarters.

The investigation is under the control of Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who yesterday personally presented the grand jurors with the latest testimony. It was said that from time to time, as additional information is uncovered, the grand jury will be informed.

The testimony of Kreis and Acceturo was concerned, in the main, with doings at the encampment at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue norwest. They said that they observed a number of armed men during their journeys through the camp there. It was their belief that the men had taken their arms away with them.

Traction Heads Invited To 5-Cent Fare Parley

Carrying out a decision reached Thursday, the Public Utilities Commission yesterday sent letters to the heads of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. inviting them to a conference on the proposal of Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, that two zone fares of 5 and 10 cents be inaugurated.

"Although such conferences have been held in the past, if, in the light of present conditions, you desire to confer again with us about this matter, we shall be very glad to arrange a time which will be convenient for all concerned," the letter read.

FEDERAL PAY SLASH AT END, WOOD SAYS

Predicts Old Salary Scale Will Be Restored if "Times Go Better."

If "times go better" there will be no further reduction in the pay of Government employes, Representative Will R. Wood, (Republican), of Indiana, father of the pay-slashing movement, declared in a letter made public yesterday by Frank J. Coleman, secretary of the District Central Labor Union.

The letter was written by Representative Wood to William L. Hutcheson, director of the labor bureau of the Republican National committee. Mr. Hutcheson had transmitted to Mr. Wood an inquiry from Mr. Coleman.

"Permit me to say," Representative Wood wrote, "that the only statement that I ever made with reference to further reduction of salaries was in answer to a query made by some young lady press reporter here in Washington.

"I told her that positively, if times go better, there would be no further reduction and that automatically at the end of the fiscal year of '33, the old wages of Federal employes would be restored. At no time have I expressed a wish or desire to reduce the working conditions of the employes of the United States Government."

The District Central Labor Union is seeking to have the 1933 convention of the American Federation of Labor held here.

Policeman Hurt by Car As He Directs Traffic

Policeman William T. G. Mills, attached to the Seventh Precinct, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon, when knocked down by a street car as he directed traffic at Twenty-ninth and M streets northwest.

Mills was struck by a Capital Traction street car operated by Motorman H. Harrel. Harrel said his car was on a curve and he was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident. Mills was treated for injuries to the legs and body at the Police Clinic and returned to duty.

Man and Woman Seized; Alleged Liquor Is Taken

A man and woman were arrested last night and police seized a quantity of alleged liquor in a raid on a house at 1650 Avon place northwest.

The raid was conducted by police of the Seventh Precinct. They arrested Carl Franklin, 21 years old, and Miss Catherine Schartzbeck, 36 years old. Police said they found 14 quarts of liquor, 150 bottles of beer and two 5-gallon kegs of liquor.

U. S. Will Resume Test for Academies

Civil Service to Examine West Point and Annapolis Candidates.

Examinations for candidates appointed to West Point and Annapolis by members of the Senate and House will be resumed by the Civil Service Commission, it was made known yesterday.

As the last Congress abolished this practice because of the increasing expense, it was necessary for an Executive order to be issued.

A move to resume the examinations was begun after members of Congress asserted that a higher class of candidates would result. In his announcement yesterday, Chairman Thomas E. Campbell, of the Civil Service Commission, declared that the examinations could be handled by the existing personnel, and that additional cost for printing could also be absorbed without exceeding the commission's appropriation for the year.

Examinations are scheduled for next month.

$32,500 Estate Left By Miss Emma Gelston

The will of Miss Emma Gelston, 630 East Capitol street, who died August 8, disposes of property valued at $32,500, it was shown yesterday in the District Supreme Court when Robert E. Lynch, attorney, filed a petition for probate of the instrument.

An adopted daughter, Bessie Gelston, is given $1,000 in cash and all the jewelry possessed by her mother, and the remaining estate is divided between the daughter, her aunt and four brothers of the deceased.

Schools Unprepared For Enrollment Gain

300 Applicants Rejected at Wilson Teachers College Because of Crowding; Other Institutions Facing Problem.

With the beginning of the fall school term only a week off, District school officials are finding themselves hard pressed to find accommodations for the increased enrollment.

At Wilson Teachers College some 300 applicants for admission have been rejected because of makeshift and cramped quarters, it was learned yesterday from Dr. E. C. Higbie, president.

While the public school enrollment will probably increase by 3,000, according to reports from the office of Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, only two new buildings and one addition have been erected for the accommodation of this increased enrollment, the school official said. The new buildings are the Roosevelt High School and the Phoebe A. Hearst School. An addition has been built to the Hine Junior High School.

Wilson Teachers College was removed from its original site at Eleventh and Harvard streets early this year because of faulty construction of the building. It is now being temporarily housed at the old Columbia Junior High School at Seventh and O streets northwest.

More than 450 freshmen asked for admission to the college, Dr. Higbie said, but because of a ruling by the Board of Education only 150 have been accepted. The enrollment at the college this year will be 500, the largest enrollment the college has ever had.

The anticipated increase in public schools this year is expected to bring the total enrollment to 85,000. Parents are urged by school officials to have their children vaccinated, "or otherwise protected against smallpox before sending them to school."

Vaccination clinics, provided by the District Health Department, are being established at 512 I street northwest. They are open each Wednesday and Saturday between 9 a. m. and noon.

Dental clinics will also be opened at the following schools: Curtis, Wisconsin avenue and O street northwest; Henry School, Seventh and P streets northwest; Raymond, Tenth street and Spring road northwest; Tyler, Eleventh and G streets southeast, and Cardozo, for colored children, at New York avenue and M street northwest.

Children entering the kindergarten must be 5 years old by November 1. Those entering the first grade must be 6 by the same date. Those coming in for the first time should appear at the school closest their homes on September 16 and 17.

U.S. WORKERS URGED TO DISTRICT ACTIVITY

American Federation Lays Plans for Forthcoming Congress Session.

An active interest in civic affairs in the District of Columbia was indorsed as one of the main objectives of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes at a meeting of the department officers and delegates from the Washington lodges of the federation last night at the Federation of Labor Building.

Michael D. Schaefer, president of the department, urged the members to take an active part in any movement to improve transportation facilities, reduce rentals, better education facilities and otherwise improve living conditions for Federal employes in Washington. His suggestion received the unanimous support of the lodges.

A program of legislative activity for the Washington lodges during the forthcoming session of Congress will be prepared by Miss Ethel M. Smith, chairman of the department legislative committee, it was announced.

President Schaefer appointed committees to draft a constitution and by-laws for the District Department and to prepare for the national convention next month.

The following delegates of lodges in the District were installed by David R. Glass, president of the American Federation of Government Employes:

MAN'S FOUR-STORY FALL PROVES FATAL

Federal Employe's Death Is Blamed on Effort to Lower Awning.

The four-story plunge of Daniel Nicholson, 28-year-old clerk in the Alien Property Custodian's Office, Thursday night from the window of an apartment house at 1724 Seventeenth street northwest, last night proved fatal. He died in Emergency Hospital shortly after 8 o'clock.

Nicholson's fall was termed an accident. He hurtled four floors to a cement court from a window in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Barnes.

Mrs. Barnes told police Nicholson attempted to lower an awning and apparently lost his balance. He returned Thursday afternoon from a visit to his home in Huntington, W. Va., and complaining of being tired, left work early and went to the Barnes' apartment.

Nicholson went to sleep in a bedroom, Mrs. Barnes declared. He was later heard moving about and when Mrs. Barnes went to investigate the room was empty. An open window left mute evidence of what had happened.

Nicholson was formerly a student at George Washington University. His father is secretary to Senator H. D. Hatfield, of West Virginia.

Violator of Arms Law Gets 90 Days

New District Ordinance Is Given Initial Test in Court.

The recently adopted regulations governing the sale of firearms here were given their initial court test yesterday when Thurman Montgomery, colored, 23 years old, was given 90 days in jail following his conviction on violating the law.

Montgomery, it was alleged, applied to a dealer for a gun, giving an allegedly fictitious name and address. When he returned after the necessary 48-hour wait, police were waiting for him, they having in the meantime checked the name and address given by Montgomery when he applied for the gun.

In court the youth said he was under the impression he had given the correct name and address when he asked to be sold a weapon. The maximum penalty possible is a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment.

King Cobra Still Eating, So Eye Operation Waits

Every time the king cobra of the National Zoological Park has a square meal he postpones his scheduled operation for six weeks.

Several weeks ago it was announced by Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo, that the great snake would have to undergo the knife because scales were growing over his eyes, impairing sight.

However, the king can still eat and the delicate task of cutting away the scales is not deemed necessary until he is so blinded that he can not take his food. One meal sometimes lasts him for six weeks.
